Property GAINS? Last I heard, real property values were down across the board. Can't tax a loss.

Here is a link to a video of a "protest" in Oakland defending the murderer Lovelle Mixon who killed four Oakland police officers in cold blood.

http://sroblog.com/2009/03/27/march-for-lovelle-mixon-who-shot-four-oakland-cops-before-being-murdered/

The perverse comments of the ignoramuses on this video are the standard curriculum in our most respected universities on the subject of criminal justice in our streets. America: guilty. White people: guilty. Law enforcement: guilty. Only the vile scum who threaten, maim and murder law-abiding citizens both black and white are innocent. Ideas do have consequences. And evil ideas have evil ends.

I believe what Rush has been saying is that he spends about 15 days a year doing his show from NYC. Some days due to evac from Florida to ensure that his show is on the air, if hurricanes threaten.

If he does his show there, he is taxed every day he does it, as he is then earning income whilst in NYC. As he said, every day he is NOT in NYC he has to prove about 14 different ways that he in NOT in NYC. A hassle.

NYC will be in bad shape once the so-called 'fat cats' decide to bail as there are very, very few folks there who actually shoulder the burden of the city's taxes.

One of the reasons he bailed from NYC to begin with was the high taxes there and in New York State itself. No personal income tax in Florida, and that's why a lot of folks go there.

Evil, like the PhDufus, Michael W. Bryant; Liberal, Democrat, Marxist and so stupid, he had to lie about having a PhD.

Yep! Once all the stupid people are in Texas, we can give it to Mexico!
This would not only raise the average IQ of America but also reduce American gun violence and increase pork sausage exports

Litmus test? Seems as though the PhDufus, Michael W. Bryant mentioned a litmus test just recently.

I countered back that the PhDufus needed a hair follicle test and that Louisville Technical Institute should send him out for one as soon as Spring Break was over, which, I believe, was yesterday!

Yet again your lack of comprehension behooves you (behoovers you, in

The wannabee wasn't too bright and managed to flunk the course. I'm not surprised that he and his buddies put the steroids into oil. If Beauzo wanted to waste his money he could have come up with better plans.

You embraced the credibility of the issue. Big difference from simply commenting. Keep on doing that 2-step but just be careful to step in it.

That smell will follow you around for a long time.

I don't mean to rain on your parade, but having encountered the Uhurucharacters before when I was a resident of Oaktown, I would categorize them more as "mentally unbalanced" than "evil". The best way to describe them is as lost, confused souls wandering through life, waiting for their Mothership to take them back to Planet Kook... :O(

Those are Kookaburra shades of grey, which are invisible to normal

Mine says nothing more than SP-600J on it. The previous owner did a mod to allow for digital frequency readout. I don't mind the freq. readout except it generates birdies every now and again. It's a good rig and fairly stable except over 30 MHz where the oscillator seems to bounce quite a bit.

So that's it? Nothing more to you than trolling the news group? With no interest in radio you just look for targets to troll? What an asshole.

It's like this Kookaburra, you troll one person in the news group you might as well be trolling all because that is all anyone can read by you.

Obvious, don't you think?

I'm not a "Obama BC kooktard" as you put it, Kookaburra.

There is no sense in you posting about radio because you don't know anything about it, Kookaburra.

No, but explaining it to you would be a waste of time as you are not capable of getting much.

Just out of curiosity, have you ever had to send the loop to KIWA to have it tweaked or have any component repaired? Or do you have a trusted electronic tech. capable of looking after the loop?

I've had mine for about 12 years and think that a check-up wouldn't be a bad idea.

Cheers!

President Bush, yes, spent money like a drunken sailor, and left the nation with a record $400-billion deficit. President Obama, however, is spending far more money than Bush, with a record $1.8-trillion deficit projected for his first year.

Just using the term "geographically" from Florida. Everything is "down under" here at the tip of South Florida!!

He already lives in Palm Beach, FL, a state with no income tax. His "EIB" network is simply him broadcasting from his South Palm Beach oceanfront home.

I can understand this kind of reaction. There really are valid reasons for it. Cops are not all they are made out to be. We can even see police misconduct on TV. It should be resisted. The extent of such misconduct is probably much greater than most folks would like to believe. It should never happen. It is a symtom of a disconnect between people and government.

It was, until Herr Obama showed up!

Now, he runs GM! He claims not to, but he fired the recent CEO!

Soon, their vehicles will bear the hammer und sickle!

Afro-Engineering at it's best, eh?

I really don't want to say this, my many shortwave friends, but I find that I am giving up far to much of my increasingly valuable time here on RRS trying to educate the faux, the debutantes, and those who tote..

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Goodbye, I sincerely hope that you all find your niche in the world of SW.

Did I say that? Try reading it again, Telemundoh...

I don't troll the group, I troll you...and you bite as well as the local Walleye do this time of year, and that's pretty damn good.

Do you ever get anything right, Telemundoh?

Let's see:

1. You claimed I never posted about SW radios...BZZT!
2. You claim I don't have any SW radios......BZZT!
3. You claim I don't know how to use them if I did own them..BZZT!
4. You claim the Obama BC story has some validity..BZZT!
5. You claim to be normal....BZZT! BZZT! BZZT!!

I crack up when I read your posts, so you almost got that right.

It's so special when you are correct.

Update - The "Telemundoh" is fast replacing the 'Kookaburra' and 'Kooktard' as BDK's term-of-endearment for Telamon.

OK it about to be 1 April 2009 and US President Barack 'Hussein' Obama just gave out 100 Official Certified Copies of His Hawaiian Birth Certificate to the White House Press Corps.

Lovelle Mixon who is/was and African-American :

Mixon used a Gun before in a Violent Crime against and African-American and went to Prison.

Mixon used a Hand Gun to Kill two OPD Officers during a Traffic Stop.

Mixon used a semi-automatic Rifle {SKS} to Kill two OPD SWAT Officers when they tried to arrest him.

DNA proves that Mixon Raped and Sodomized a 12
Year Old African-America Girl within the last Month.

Mixon is also linked to four other Rapes that involved young African-American Women in East Oakland during the last 6-Months.

Most likely Mixon knew that once he was back-in the Justice System behind Bars and that DNA would show that he had done at least One Rape of a Minor Child and most likely Five Rapes {Serial Rapist} in total : And that he would be in Jail for a Long Time.

NOTE - All of Mixon Victims were African-Americans and some of them were Children with the exception of the OPD Officers who were all White.

? WHY ? Should Lovelle Mixon be Idealize and Made a Hero in the African-American Community of East Oakland ?

it boggles the mind ~ RHF

Handy Shortwave Chart

billmc@agora.rdrop.com

Band allocations and time zone conversions for the USA. Includes broadcast bands used outside the USA. For multi-use bands, primary usage is shown.
Some stations operate outside official bands. Information is from Oct 2005 FCC rules and Jan 2006 NTIA manual, see Chapter 4 of:
http://www.ntia.doc.gov/osmhome/redbook/redbook.html

Frequencies are in kHz. Usual spacing in shortwave broadcast bands is 5 kHz. Frequencies above 10000 kHz tend to propagate better during the day; frequencies below 10000 kHz tend to propagate better at night.

Please e-mail suggestions and corrections to billmc@agora.rdrop.com.

WARNINGS AND DISCLAIMERS

Connecting unapproved devices to phone lines may be illegal in your area. Telephone lines present a potential shock hazard. Do not use this antenna for transmitting. Use at your own risk.

INTRODUCTION

This article describes how to use a phone line as a shortwave receiving antenna. Performance will vary depending on the kind of phone line you have. Overhead lines usually make okay antennas, while underground lines | usually don't. Phone lines carrying DSL service may be unsuitable because | DSL operates over a wide spectrum. A phone line antenna will generally pick up more power line noise than a dedicated antenna, so don't expect to | use it for DX work. Nevertheless, I found that it outperformed the
| telescopic whip antennas built into many portables.

A reader sent in this suggestion: If you're concerned about connecting the phone line directly to the receiver, try wrapping the phone cord several times around the receiver's telescopic whip antenna instead. Performance may not be as good as a direct connection, but it will probably be better than the whip antenna by itself.

Someone else wrote asking about lightning protection. I haven't thought much about it because thunderstorms are rare in my area. Most phone lines have lightning arrestors on them where they enter the house, but the lightning arrestors may pass enough energy during a lightning strike damage a receiver. My suggestion is to disconnect the antenna when not in use if you experience frequent thunderstorms.

HOW TO DO IT

The simplest connection is a single capacitor between the phone line and receiver. The capacitor eliminates all phone line voltages, including | ringing, so that they will not harm the receiver. The capacitor should | be rated 250 volts or higher.

Phone line RF connector
red .01 uF center cond. / \ or o--------||-----------------------------|-o | To receiver
green \ /
50 ohm coax |
ground |
or o-----------------------------------------+ N.C. shield

N.C. = no connect. I originally connected the phone line ground (yellow wire) to this terminal, but reception was better without it (if you do this, play it safe and put a .01 uF capacitor in series). If another ground is available, you can connect it to this terminal.

If you are picking up local AM or FM radio stations on the shortwave bands, it is likely that your receiver is overloaded. Inexpensive and portable receivers usually lack the filtering needed to eliminate this interference, but you can make your own filters. Filters can also be | purchased from shortwave dealers (see below for recommendations).

A high-pass filter can be used to remove signals below the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from local AM stations and presents a high impedance to the phone line at audio frequencies so that the phone line remains balanced.

A low-pass filter can be used to remove signals above the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from FM and TV stations, as well as VHF 2-way radio transmitters. If you use both filters, connect the output of the first filter to the input of the second (don't forget to connect their ground terminals together). It doesn't matter which filter is connected first.

These filters also work well with random wire antennas. Just connect the antenna in place of the phone line.

The filter(s) should be connected to the phone line in this manner:

Phone line RF connector
red -------- center cond. / \
or o----| |-------------------------|-o | To receiver
green | | \ /
| FILTER | 50 ohm coax |
ground | | |
or o----| |----------------------------+

FILTER PLANS

The original credit for the high-pass and low-pass filters goes to Paul Blumstein and John Shalamskas, respectively. Edited versions of their articles are included here:

Date: 09 Jan 91 00:54:08 GMT
From: paulb@harley.TTI.COM (Paul Blumstein)
Subject: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

The following ascii-schematic diagram is a high pass filter that will filter out Broadcast Band (MW) stations. I found it a great boon to my shortwave listening since local MW stations overload my ATS-803A front end & appear in SW, especially with a long antenna.

If you remember my antenna saga, I went from 50 feet to 150 feet & had overload problems causing me to cut back to 50 feet. (Even at 50 feet, I still have some MW interference). I took the advice of Gary Coffman and looked up filters in the ARRL Handbook. With the filter in place, I intend to try to increase my antenna length again.

Anywho, here is the filter, for interested parties.

--------||---+----||-----+----||-----------
} }
{ {
} }
-------------+-----------+-----------------

The outer capacitors are 1500 pf ceramic disks.
The inner capacitor is 820 pf ceramic disk.
The squiggly things are coils (two total). Each one is 2.7 uh.
(a close value will do).

From: bill@videovax.tv.tek.com (William K. McFadden)
Subject: Re: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

I built the filter that Paul Blumstein posted recently and measured it on a gain-phase analyzer. Here are its characteristics:

100 kHz -120dB
500 kHz -68dB

1000 kHz -38dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2100 kHz -3dB

The source and load impedances were 50 ohms. Because the filter has five elements, the attenuation is 30dB per octave. The measurements confirmed this.

This filter seems to be a good compromise between interference attenuation and passband response. There is very little attenuation in the 120m band and above. It could use a little more attenuation at the upper end of MW, which could be done with more stages or a higher cutoff frequency. Alternatively, you could build two of these filters and put them in series. (Since two 1500pF capacitors in series are really 750pF, you could eliminate one cap.)

Just for fun, I put 470 ohms in series with the input to see how the filter performed with an antenna mismatch. The response was:

100 kHz -105dB
500 kHz -60dB
1000 kHz -35dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2300 kHz -3dB

These figures are normalized to the passband response of -15dB, which is due to the impedance mismatch between the source and load and would have been there without the filter. Hence, the filter works almost as well in spite of the mismatch, which is good news to those who use long-wire antennas.

Subject: Construction of filters for SW reception

Several people have asked for construction details of the filters I built for my DX-440.

The high-pass filter helped some, but in my location the VHF/UHF broadcasters are also causing problems. So, I dug out the ARRL handbook and chose a 7-element Chebyshev low-pass design that is -3 dB at 35 MHz, -20 dB at 43 MHz, and -50 dB at 64 MHz (all calculated; it works well in practice!)

LOW-PASS FILTER (Rejects FM, TV, etc.)

chassis ground

I had to do a little more improvising at this point. I used .33 uH instead of .36, and .66 uH instead of .42, but it works fine.

The 5-lug terminal strips were perfect for these circuits, since there are 4 lugs plus a grounded lug. All "ground" connections go to the lug that is mounted to the chassis, and the other 4 lugs are used for each of the connections on the signal line. One terminal strip is used per filter. Since both filters were necessary to clean up the hash, I am going to put them both into one box when I get the time.

The proper way to connect them is in series, i.e.

signal in ------- filter 1 -------- filter 2 -------- signal out

There is no difference between ends. They are "bilateral" which means you can't possibly hook them up backwards. (In the above schematics,

COIL WINDING

You can make the coils yourself using this formula:

L = 0.2 * B^2 * N^2 / (3B + 9A + 10C)

L is the inductance, in uH
A is the length of the coil, in inches
B is the mean diameter of the coil, in inches
C is the diameter of the wire, in inches
N is the number of turns

For small wire, you can assume C = 0.

I'll just say this. If I had to make a bet, my bet is that he wasn't born in this country. None of that matters anymore though, so that is a closed issue with me. When the "people hunting Obama" tried to get his records from school, particularly college, zitch- nada- nothing. I just wonder why it is that when people tried to get info that any other presidents we had.....would come up with....but with Obama - nothing. Back to the birth certificate thing one more time, there is some where on this planet, record of the original birth certificate.

I had laminated my own S.S. card, I didn't know that in the "eyes of the law in Ohio" that it made it void - - so I had to get another one.
I asked the ladies down at the S.S. office about the birth certificate thing with Obama because I had to produce my ORIGINAL. They would not accept anything other than a duplicate of the ORIGINAL - - if you did not have in your posession your original birth certificate. I have my original but keep it locked up in a safe with other documents, but I also have a duplicate of the orginal. Three ladies in that office all laughed about it like they knew different, like since they do that for a living and know more than most about things of that nature, out of the three - the one lady said nothing - but the other two said exactly what I said earlier. That "somewhere"....there is either the original
- - or a duplicate of the original. She said it is just "common sense"......it doesn't just go away. She continued to say that what was shown as his proof could have been done anywhere by anyone at anytime. When I left there, it kind of cemented it in my head the way they chuckled and what they said when the "case of the missing orginal Obama certificate" thing happened/still happening. That gives me cause to think he wasn't born in the USA. But it doesn't matter, he could've been born on Mars, he is our president now.

Quit it. You can come at me with better than that. That was almost dissapointing.

Ah. OK - there we go. I think you now showed the difference between our thinking. To me, there is no grey BDK, not with things of this nature that we are speaking about now. When I see with my own eyes and read documents from the freedom of information act and see the plans that have been implemented and have already been OK'd and these camps are either built and waiting for people somewhere at sometime or are in the process of beeing built, it gives me a pause for concern. When there is a piece of land (you can do your own homework) that has hundreds of thousands of simple coffins stacked one on top of each other.....it is cause for concern. When the majority, if not all of these camps, are built right next to railroad tracks and at many of these facilities - -- you can plainly see that the trains are marked military, that is cause for concern.

Five- - six years ago, during the summer, I went to our local Frisch's restaurant down in the village. When I pulled in I noticed two army trucks in the parking lot and many guys sitting outside eating. As I walked towards them, I could hear them talking, and just about everyone I saw talking were all foreign. {?} To me, that is cause for concern. Foreign troops, not only in our country, but in my village. There is a lot of military activity in our area because the stretch of road that it goes to.

Oh my. The frequency readout also. You make me jealous, I wish you were my neighbor. ;-) Myself, I wouldn't care about the bounce over thirty because I wouldn't be up that high, how high does it go BTW? I forget. One more thing, do you use your receiver everyday or do you have others you use more? Just curious.

Just asking Bob, are you an expert in the field? After you use your receivers do you unplug the antennas from your radio or shunt them all to ground? Just curious. Not EMP related, I'll beat you to that this time.

I definitely agree with you. I have not lost one night of sleep, nor went to bed thinking about the effects of an EMP explosion.

I know it isn't EMP related.

No I don't find humor, I find stupidity, and I don't mean to sound crass about it either. Kind of like living in tornado alley area and not having a tornado shelter or a basement etc. etc. or insurance for that.....if that is even possible in those areas. I constantly see news of hurricanes and tornados EVERY season and I can't help but shake my head and when I hear or see someone on tv just losing it.....like they thought it would never happen and sadly just kind of chuckle...in a sad way...not a laughing way. I know it isn't EMP related. ;-)

I can't wait to see how many years go by before everyone stops blaming Bush for everything. Much of the early Bush Admin. problems were because of things Clinton and company enacted. But hardly anyone brought that up, especially the media. The country can't just keep blaming things on him anymore, the annointed leader is now in the White House <cough> and he is "Transparent".....as is his cabinet <rolling my eyes> and he wants and won on "CHANGE" and then basically stockpiled his cabinet with people from the Clinton Admin.<shaking my head> But it's all good, it'll get better. Right? ;-)

Looks like that knowledge has helped you in this thread Bob. Good luck to you also.

Just curious Bob. Why is that you do not want your posts archived by Google? I noticed that you requested it not be archived and that it be removed from Google in five days. Just curious. This should be good.

This base was easy to miss because it is out in the country, flat land. The only clue was the old tattered remnants of an old military style guardshack at the entrance for lack of a better word. If you didn't know that at one time it was a military base you wouldn't have had a clue till you (if you noticed them like I did) saw the underground vents spaced throughout the land. You can type into Google - - Felicity Nike Missile Base and then zoom over the property and see it.

LOL.

I would love to see that, just to read the reactions to it from the

That was a good picture, there was none of that in the one I saw. Just a lot of vents and a structure that had an elevator that you hand pulled or released to go down into where the missiles were stored. My friend estimated anywhere from twenty to thirty feet underground, who knows. That plot of land is now privately owned the last time I checked, someone sure has a good bunker for them or family.

- Just curious Bob. Why is that you do not want your posts archived by

Those are great links RHF, I looked at everyone. Do you see the comparison I am using in the fact that back when they were being built many said people were nuts. Even after many of them were built, many people just stated that they were "simply army bases and nothing more." Kind of like what is being talked about here with "camps" being built and their purpose.. Many in here are labeled as "kooks" or crazy.....even though we/I know for a fact they are being built because I physically drove up to one myself twice. <shaking my head>

JB, I would say yes to this. about a year ago a loop was on ebay, and stated it was just checked out by KIWA.

an email to Craig would settle this fast.

On Mar. 24, the Supreme Court heard arguments in Citizens United v. FEC, the latest installment in an ongoing series of challenges to the Bipartisan Campaign Reform Act (BCRA), better known as McCain-Feingold. This case has far-reaching implications for the future of campaign activities, and draws an important line between the right of citizens to speak out and the power of government to imprison them if they do.

No, it's never been back = the cost of shipping both way would be several hundreds of dollars.

I did blow it up once - I think a long beverage antenna touched it and let off static. With the help of a techie ham pal, he and Craig at kiwa solved the problem and Craig sent a few parts that my techie soldered in. It's worked great for years now and by it's results I can say it is perfectly tuned/aligned and super sensitive.

One of the best bits of gear I ever bought. It has it's own suitcase for carting around.

Thus, in American English, fascist is the support of "right wing authoritarian views". So, are you redifining "fascist" or "liberal"?
Short of making a new version of American English, the terms are therefore mutually exclusive, regardless of whatever you dearly hope the new right wing mantra's newest soundbite to be. Period. You're

laugh away. According to the definition of fascist in American English, you're just trying to invent a new definition for the word that is completely opposite of it's actual meaning.

Don't worry, most people laugh at ignorance too. LMAO

Obama is a symtom also, a continuation of the populist rejection of individual liberty for privilege and someone else's bacon by decree instead of work.

Governing has become a way to get privileges for some at the expense of others. http://www.capitaldistrict-lp.org/what.shtml

I do wish you people would stop talking crap. The origin of this garbage appears to be the following article. The citation is:-

Journal of Contemporary History, Vol. 35, No. 4, 541-558 (2000)
© 2000 SAGE Publications

H.G. Wells's 'Liberal Fascism'
Philip Coupland
University of Warwick, UK

And here is the abstract:-

"During the 1930s H.G. Wells's theory of revolutionary praxis centred around a concept of 'liberal fascism' whereby the Wellsian 'liberal' utopia would be achieved by an authoritarian élite. Taking inspiration from the militarized political movements of the 1930s, this marked a development in the Wellsian theory of revolution from the 'open conspiracy' of the 1920s. Although both communist and fascist movements evinced some of the desired qualities of a Wellsian vanguard, it was fascism rather than communism which came closest to Wells's ideal. However, in practice, despite the failure of approaches to parties of the left and centre as possible agents of revolution, Wells rejected the British Union of Fascists. The disparity between Wells's theory and his actions when faced by the reality of fascism echoes the unresolved tension between ends and means at the heart of the concept of 'liberal fascism'. "

You will note the following points:-

'Liberal fascism' (it is not clear if the phrase is coined by Wells himself, or Coupland) refers to a tactic of revolution - the imposition of a liberal revolution by means of an authoritarian coup by an elite (possibly commanding a militarised organisation). And there the resemblance ends....it has nothing whatever to do with the actual philosophy behind the revolution, which is still essentially liberal (in the sense of emancipatory) in nature.

Note also that Wells would have nothing to do with actual fascists. Indeed, he was repelled by them.

From this, a seconf rate writer called Jonah Goldberg produced a book,
a book that was slated by most reputable reviewers.

And right wing political illiterates have regurgitated it ever since.

I hope that this clears this matter up (though I doubt it).

Yes, it does. It should make you reassess your assumptions about the police in Okland. Perhaps the cops have become bigger thugs than Mixon. If it can happen in Oakland it can happen elsewhere.

The State of California passed Laws to allow the Police and Fire Departments along with other City Employees NOT to be Citizens and Residents of the very Cities that they Serve and Draw a Paycheck from. So 90% OPD is made-up of Officers that do not live in the Community and are not part of the Community that they serve.
They OPD Officers Families do not reside in Work and go to schools in the City. The OPD Officers draw their Pay Checks from the City but do not contribute to the City and reinvest their incomes within the Community.

The first words out of a OPD Officer's mouth are "You People" meaning any and all Citizens {Residents} of the City of Oakland : White, Black, Hispanic, Asian, Male Female and other.

The OPD views itself as separate and apart from the Citizens {Residents} of Oakland that they are Paid to Serve.

NOTE - It does not matter about the Race or Nationality of the OPD Officer be they : White,

Black, Hispanic, Asian, Male, Female and other.
Within a few years they all get the "You People" mentality.

The OPD Officers relationship with the Citizens of Oakland can be viewed akin to the relationship of the British Troops in Northern Ireland. For the most part the OPD is a Foreign Occupational Army Oppressing the Citizenry.

The OPD and the Citizens of the City of Oakland is just one example of what is wrong in America's Cities where the Police do not come from the Community and are not part of the Community.

But then again the vast majority of Oakland's City Employees don't reside in the City either and the Citizens of Oakland's Tax Money is Exported Outside the City everyday and every week draining the City of it Capital and Economy.

FWIW - Sand Francisco has the same problem with it's City Employees; but overall SF has a Net Job Gain with it's daily influx of Private Business Employees and thus can Balance it Tax Rolls, Capital Expenditures and Full Economy. The City of Oakland does not have that Net Job Gain and Exports more Jobs and Income to other Communities within the SF Bay Area then it receive in return.
The Net Result is that each Oakland City Job is a negative drain on the Oakland Economy.

an that's the way i see it ~ RHF

The National Socialist German Workers' Party
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/National_Socialist_German_Workers%E2%80%...
(German: Nationalsozialistische Deutsche Arbeiterpartei) Abbreviated NSDAP), commonly known in English as the NAZI Party (Nationalsozialistische Deutsche Arbeiterpartei) was a political party in Germany between 1919 and 1945.
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nazi
It was known as the German Workers' Party (DAP)

Today we have 21st Century "Liberal-Fascism" and the Liberal-Fascist Agents of Social Change.
-aka- The Democrat Party of the USA attempting to Socialize the Nation under their One Party Control with their Charismatic Leader {Totalitarian} Barack 'Hussein' Obama . -aka- Change You Can Believe In !
-aka- "The Third Way" via Fascism Authoritarian {Elitist} and Totalitarian

The Validity of the Term "Liberal-Fascist"
- Can Liberal-Fascism Exist?

- Do Liberal-Fascists Exist ?
http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.shortwave/msg/af4569002bba33ca http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.shortwave/msg/efbc4aa52f959d40
Denying the potential existence of 'Liberal-Fascism' does not change the fact that 'Liberal-Fascism' may and can exist in the world today.
Liberal-Fascist :
Employing the Justification, Means and Tactics of Fascism {National Socialism} to Achieve the Ends of a One Party Liberal {Socialist} Agenda is what has morphed into "Liberal-Fascism" and those who are the Agents-of-One-Party-Socialist-Change are in-fact Liberal-Fascist.
* Classically Fascism had one reasoned definition in the early 1900s. -but- Time Changes Words and their Meanings . . .
Time often changes Words and the Meaning of Words; and that is part of the Evolution of Language with the Passage of Time.
Hence the use of the 'Hyphen' between the Two Words Linking Them and Uniting Them into One Compound Word with a New Meaning and Usage.
"Liberal-Fascism" & "Liberal-Fascist"
Liberal & Fascist have now become One Newly 'Hyphenated' {Combination} Word "Liberal-Fascist" with it's own new unique meaning.

Did you just cite yourself citing yourself as a proof of proof of something?

Your dedication to the BHO birth certificate non-issue makes it easy to treat you as a kooktard. You did proclaim your "dedication" to the cause.

Not surprisingly, you're wrong about my life.

Telemundoh! Here's some advice for your mental health: Check in, take meds, live again.

The radio receives up to 54 MHz. Yeah, the freq. instability isn't really an issue as I rarely tune past 22MHz.

My Drake R8B sees every day use but the SP-600 sees more use during the winter than the summer. The SP cranks out a lot of heat! When I'm traveling, I like to use the Sony 7600GR. It's a great little portable.

Thanks, John. Wow - the transportation costs to and from South Africa really are out of this world. I wouldn't have to pay anywhere near that type of coin. The suitcase sounds like a great idea and I'll have to look into it.

Both my KIWA and Quantum QX-PRO get regular workouts but I'm nowhere near a coastline so my DX isn't so great.

The only dedication I see is to the Obama BC story.

Talk about lame.

The suitcase set up is nice. I have my scanners inside a large aluminum guncase that I bought online from someplace going out of business a couple years ago. I took the foam and marked it all out so my radios and accessories wouldn't touch each other, and trimmed it with a single edge blade. Nice to be able to just toss it into my truck when I go someplace without having to worry about damage, and I know all my stuff is there, waiting to go. I used to have a Panasonic RF-2200 and a longwire with a bungee cord on one end, and an alligator clip on the other end, in another case for HF listening on vacations, but I finally sold it on Ebay, as motels aren't HF friendly, and I have other rigs for home use.

They used it at one of the local hospitals, and it would put a nice harmonic on CH 23 on the CB, and was really annoying. I was close enough to hear it all the way down on channel 11 or so, and the "Boop-boopboooop!" was easy to hear all over town..

I am repeating this message in answer to 'RHF', because there is some glitch in his posting that does not allow me to reply to it.

The NSDAP was founded, not by Hitler, but by Anton Drexler. Hitler effectively took it over. Drexler wanted a nationalistic programme that would appeal to German workers, hence the nomenclature. As to the word 'socialist', there is a European tradition of people using that word to describe political movements and organisations that are right wing but include a social (usually corporate) agenda. Following the Papal Encyclicals 'Rerum Novarum' and Quadregessima Anno', the Roman Catholic Church sponsored Trade Unions and Political parties that incorporated principles of social justice from a corporate point of view that owed more to Aquinas than Marx. Thus, in Bavaria, the mainstream conservative (in the European sense) party is still called the 'Christian Socialist Party'.

All this is nothing to do with mainstream socialism. Instead, it might be described as a reaction against it. Some American right wingers who post on sites like these inevitably make this mistake for two reasons. Forstly, they are not Europeans. Secondly, they are either too lazy or too stupid to research the background.

The rest of the post is merely a repeat of the garbage that I have exploded.

Now please stop posting ignorant crap!

Just in case anyone is still interested in shortwave related topics in this N.G., here is a startling photo and description of what RF can do to human tissue:

http://www.snopes.com/photos/medical/electricfence.asp

When I was a kid, our nearby hospital spit out lots of RFI from diathermy equipment, and there was a quite predictable schedule for the QRM on several bands, but I don't remember the frequencies any more safe to say that it was strong on fundamentals and harmonics over much of 80 through 10 meters.

Think about that photo next time you microwave a wiener.

There is nothing to indicate such an event. We're just seeing a below average cycle coming up.

Ask your AGW deniers to calculate the trends without 1998 (an anomaly due to ocean currents) and you'll see that the heat is on.

Hi Folks

A video production of our latest dxpedition to Seefontein, South Africa has been uploaded to You Tube.

Apart from various scenes of the dx location, the footage includes :

the guys behind their respective receivers,

a simple and speedy BOG set-up, barefoot ultralight reception,

highlights from previous visits, remarkable reception from the Sony SRF-M37V and FRG 7.

I believe this is common to many cities, mine included. I don't really have a problem with that. Just because you live elsewhere doesn't mean you have to be a thug with a gun.

Looks like a problem with Oakland. Why don't bureaucrats want to live there? Why can't Oakland draw from within? My guess is people with a choice avoid Oakland for good reason. But if Oakland can make residency a requirement perhaps things will improve. Or, they can't retain employees.

Great video, should make everyone jealous of that fantastic location!
If it weren't for all the condos and million+ dollar homes on the beaches near Hobe Sound, I could go out and lay some really long antennas! Great music by Gary, does he have a CD available, perhaps on Amazon.com? I can see how the cottage might be threatened by the sea, now that I have seen its location, those waves are coming awfully close!
Those ultralights are fantastic! Didn't think that something so small could be so sensitive and selective. Again, John, great video!

AGW = Anthropogenic Global Warming
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Anthropogenic

* AGW = Anti-Global Warming
* AGW = Accelerated Global Warming

A natural cyclic Trend toward Global Warming

To blame Mankind for it is a questionable and potentially flawed associative 'theory'.

The actual Facts may very well be that Mankind {Humanity} has nothing to very little to do with this 'possible' Global Warming natural cyclic Trend.

Thus anything that Mankind does to try to prevent this natural cyclic Trend toward Global Warming

Dr.BW,

1 - Words and their Means can and do change with the passage of Time and the Migration

2 - Political Ideas and Movements Do Evolve wtih Time.

3 - Words can simply take-on new meaning.

4 - New Words and New Meaning can be Created

Circa 1960s - Used to get a beautiful scrolling pattern on one of the Lower VHF TV Channels when the local Hospital {three blocks away} was running one piece of their Medical Equipment.

First checked the TV and Antenna and Grounds.
Next checked the TV's AC Outlet and found that it was reversed : Rewired it correctly and no more beautiful scrolling pattern.

While not a true ice age, the term was introduced into scientific literature by Franï¿½ois E. Matthes in 1939.[1] Climatologists and historians working with local records no longer expect to agree on either the start or end dates of this period, which varied according to local conditions. Some confine the Little Ice Age to approximately the 16th century to the mid 19th century.[2] It is generally agreed that there were three minima, beginning about 1650, about 1770, and 1850, each separated by slight warming intervals.[3]

It is not certain if the LIA was a global phenomenon. The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) describe areas affected by the LIA; "Evidence from mountain glaciers does suggest increased glaciation in a number of widely spread regions outside Europe prior to the 20th century, including Alaska, New Zealand and Patagonia (Grove and Switsur, 1994). However, the timing of maximum glacial advances in these regions differs considerably, suggesting that they may represent largely independent regional climate changes, not a globally-synchronous increased glaciation" with "a modest cooling of the Northern Hemisphere during this period of less than 1ï¿½C," and suggests that "current evidence does not support globally synchronous periods of anomalous cold or warmth over this timeframe, and the conventional terms of 'Little Ice Age' and Medieval Warm Period appear to have limited utility in describing trends in hemispheric or global mean temperature changes in past centuries. "

Industrial, Scientific and Medical equipment is governed in the USA by the Federal Communications Commission under the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 47, Part 18. There are only three ISM bands falling in the shortwave spectrum although a fourth is just above the normal HF spectrum (47CFR,Part 18,Subpart C,ï¿½301). The frequencies are:

Frequency Tolerance
6.78 MHz ï¿½ 15.0 kHz
13.56 MHz ï¿½ 7.0 kHz
27.12 MHz ï¿½ 163.0 kHz
40.68 MHz ï¿½ 20.0 kHz

When operating on an ISM frequency, the emission standards for unintentional radiation are considerably relaxed from those on other frequencies. Thus it is frequent that SWL's hear signals on the ISM bands. And for those considering pirate radio broadcasting on ISM frequencies, the ISM rules prohibit the use of ISM frequencies for communications. Unlicensed communication devices operating within the shared ISM bands are governed by Part 15, Subpart B of the FCC rules and regulations.

In one of my previous jobs, I was responsible for compliance testing of several RF heaters. All but one operated on ISM bands; the one that didn't required considerable care to keep it within emission limits. It operated in the vicinity of 100 MHz at a power level of 15 kilowatts.

The Census is used to apportion the seats in the U.S. House of Representative. There are 435 House seats that are divided among the states in proportion to their population, which is determined by the decennial census. States with more people get more seats in the U.S. House.

This means that a state harboring more illegal aliens can gain more House seats as long as the Census Bureau finds the illegal aliens and counts them. This also means that the illegal alien population resident in the United States during a census year has the potential to alter the regional and philosophical balance of power in Congress.

The 1990s saw the biggest population boom in U.S. history. This is truly astounding news coming three decades after widespread determination that the country was mature and probably already overpopulated. No wonder Americans became increasingly alarmed at their deteriorating quality of life due to sprawl, congestion, overcrowded schools, lost open spaces and increasing restrictions on their individual liberty in order to handle the new population explosion!

This population boom was almost entirely engineered by federal forced-growth policies that are still in place. The Census Bureau states that Americans will suffer this kind of rapid congestion every decade into the future unless Congress changes these policies.

OK so did BHO show the same 'respect' and Kiss the Hand of the Queen of England ? - NO !

So clearly BHO acting without the ObamaPrompter© Flub-It-Up by Kissing the Hand of King Abdullah of Saudi Arabia ? - Yeah Big Time.

Someone in the Obama White House Staff is really giving BHO the wrong "INFO" on Head-of-State Protocols

But besides the Chinese the Saudis are one of the

Dave 'label' it as you will; but it lasted on-and-off for around 200 Years and had a significant impact on mankind and the environment that humans were forced to live in and exist al those years.

"IF" from 2010 to 2210 present Humanity with 6 Billion People on the Earth were required to live under such conditions the World as we know it would have to change radically; and a large part of Humanity would be gone due to Climate and Starvation within a decade or two.

BWHAHAHA! So believing in the Obama BC story is a sign of character and intelligence?

ROTFLMAO! The kooktard is STRONG in you.

Better than being honest and calling yourself a kooktard, I guess.

It's rather disgusting for a community in Oakland. Calif. to march in support of a cop killer and rapist. A Black professor on O'Reilly's program justified their support for the murderer/rapist. He said the community is just fed up being terrorized by police officers. Someone should tell the Black Professor that Black on Black crime is more common than police on Black incidents.

Space Weather News for April 2, 2009
http://spaceweather.com

SPOTLESS SUNS: Yesterday, NASA announced that the sun has plunged into the deepest solar minimum in nearly a century. Sunspots have all but vanished and consequently the sun has become very quiet. In 2008, the sun had no spots 73% of the time, a 95-year low. In 2009, sunspots are even more scarce, with the "spotless rate" jumping to 87%. We are currently experiencing a stretch of 25 continuous days uninterrupted by sunspots--and there's no end in sight.

This is a big event, but it is not unprecedented. Similarly deep solar minima were common in the late-19th and early-20th centuries, and each time the sun recovered with a fairly robust solar maximum. That's probably what will happen in the present case, although no one can say for sure. This is the first deep solar minimum of the Space Age, and the first one we have been able to observe using modern technology. Is it like others of the past? Or does this solar minimum have its own unique characteristics that we will discover for the first time as the cycle unfolds? These questions are at the cutting edge of solar physics.

You can monitor the progress of solar minimum with a new "Spotless Days Counter" on spaceweather.com. Instead of counting sunspots, we're counting no sunspots. Daily updated totals tell you how many spotless days there have been in a row, in this year, and in the entire solar cycle. Comparisons to historical benchmarks put it all in perspective. Visit http://spaceweather.com for data.

But political idiocy and illiteracy remains. This bizarre notion that National Socialism and socialism are one and the same is comparatively recent and largely confined to idiots who reside in America. No such identification existed in the immediate post-war period, or throughout the decades that followed.

Indeed they do, but you are talking about two diametrically opposed points of view. Fascism has a racial solvent. Socialism (however you define it) does not.

No-one, apart from idiots and political illiterates (and American ones at that) uses the term 'liberal-fascism'.

The fact that it exists as your personal fantasy is meaningless. The concept does not exist in reality.

Look, I've already debunked this in a previous posting (which you have not replied to). I indicated the origin of the term, and it doesn't mean what you think it does.

Are you some kind of troll?

So far today, I can't pick up any HD channels on the following stations;

92.5 KQRS x2

93.7 KXXR x2

97.1 KCTZ x2

98.5 KTIS x3

99.5 KSJN x2

100.3 KTLK x3

100.3 KDWB x2

102.1 KEEY x2

102.9 WLTE x2

104.1 WZJK x2

I just checked these at 12 Noon today, and they're still off at 12:45PM; transmitter work being done, or ???
All but 1 (WLTE) have no ID - WLTE at least has RDS running. What's up?

Clarification : It Ain't just the OPD Against African-Americans {Blacks} : It's the Occupational Army of the OPD Against All
The Citizens of Oakland {All Races/Colors and Nationalities}.

The OPD's Mentality -is- You People ! {Sub-Humans}
-wrt- Oakland Residents.

The OPD's disdain for the Citizens {Residents} of the City of Oakland; who are in-fact the OPD's Employers; is not just directed to African-Americans; but to All Oaklanders of All Races, Nationalities and Genders.

The OPD does not view itself as part of the City of Oakland and is not Living with their Families {invested and Nested} in the Community of Oakland : The OPD see's itself as the Overlords of the Oaklanders.

But this is a pandemic problem with all major US Cities where the Police {Fire} Departments etc are Staffed by Officers who do not Live-in-the-City.

NO FOR YOU TO CONTINUE TO ATTEMPT TO "DENY" THE 'POSSIBILITY' THAT TODAY IN

THE 2000'S [LIBERAL-FASCISM] COULD EXIST
--- CLEARLY MEANS YOU ARE A STUCK IN THE 1930'S -or- A TROLL ~ RHF

213. Dumbbell concedes, CE retailers critical to HD Radio rollout

"The Barbell Strategy"

"To stay ubiquitous, to maintain its reach, radio must be on the devices that people carry... To stick with the analogy, you need a bar to support the barbells, and that bar is traditional consumer electronic radios sold at retail. This traditional CE market is huge in its own right, and penetrating it first leads to more rapid adoption in cars and portables. The traditional CE market is too big for iBiquity or radio broadcasters to ignore... Take cars. Consumer electronics almost never penetrate the factory installed auto market without first proving out in the CE segment. Automakers won't put new consumer technology in cars until they are certain that it works and there is demand for it."

"Reality check: People don't buy radios" September 2007

"Five years from now, you won't walk into a Best Buy and say, I want an HD Radio. You'll just say, I want a radio — because that will be the standard... So here's the newsflash to Bob Struble and all the other suits getting ready to yuck-it-up at the NAB Radio Show this week... in five years? No one is going to be saying I want a radio when they walk into Best Buy."

http://tinyurl.com/d6hcsq

"HD Radio spinners claim a breakthrough year: Pulling a fast one"

"According to a press release from the Alliance 330,000 HD receivers were sold last year. This is a 725 per cent increase from the 40,000 sets purchased a year earlier and therefore 2007 was a 'breakthrough year' for the technology. In 2008 they will sell a million of the things."

"Let's Go Shopping: HD Radio in Cincy"

"A Target is just across the street, so I sauntered over and looked around their home electronics section, located about as far as possible from the front door and against an outside wall. HD Radio? Nada. Zero. Zip... Then it was onto Wal-Mart. I checked the home electronics department from top to bottom and nothing. No one was around except in the photo department next door, but the guys there knew nothing about HD Radio... My final stops were at the local mall. I went because that's where my local RadioShack is located — on the lower level, below ground. When I got there, all that was displayed was a lonely-looking Boston Acoustics Recepter HD. It wasn’t plugged in and had no price tag. I asked the attendant if they had any others. He looked at me with his mouth half-opened and said he didn’t even know they had that one."

"HD Slowly Passes Into The Night"

"Radio Shack has given up on HD Radio. Their stores have two radios in stock and both are on clearance. One radio that sold for $249 is now on closeout at $82. The other was $149 and now sells for $99. If that isn’t ‘get this out of here’ pricing what is? It appears no new models are coming to replace them. No surprise really... Best Buy, Circuit City and Fry’s are the same story. They don’t have HD units except for some car units and their people don’t have a clue what it does. Just ask them."

"Exploring HD-R Availability in Philly"

"So how is HD Radio doing in Philly? Badly... How can broadcasters expect the public to get excited about HD Radio when it can't be uniformly heard everywhere? How can retailers sell the product if they don't stock it? Or if the products they do have on hand can't be demonstrated and employees are clueless? How can manufacturers justify building the product if it doesn't sell for these reasons? No wonder some automakers balked at putting HD Radio in cars when it came up tied to the satellite merger."

http://www.rwonline.com/pages/s.0049/t.16233.html

"HD Radio Has Yet To Take Off"

"But the technology hasn't taken off as expected. NBC 5 could not find one person who owns a hi-def radio and neither could KISS FM's program director. I don't know anybody that has one yet, Davis said."

"But 19 Utah stations are broadcasting 31 high-definition radio channels with six more coming soon... It seems the stations are investing in technology the public isn't quite ready to embrace...

Some have heard it referred to but never had cause to get one. Unless you are a gadget person, few of these radios have sold."

http://gormanmediablog.blogspot.com/2007/09/halif-dead-radio.html

"HD Radio and QVC -- looked good on paper"

"One final thing I noticed. Usually there's a countdown in the item info bar. How many have sold, how many are left; that kind of thing. That information was absent. At the end of the half hour I have no idea how many of the three radios were available, nor how many sold. And no one called in with a testimonial."

"Is HD Radio going to be killed by manufacturers' desire to keep it a premium-priced upgrade?"

"I just embarked on my twice-per-year online shopping trip to see if it's time to upgrade my car stereo to HD. Saw a sudden shift to car radios now being 'HD-Ready' instead of HD for a number of radios. This appears to require the purchase and professional installation of a separate, compatible unit. Anyone know why this appears to be a sudden new direction and what this might mean for the future of HD radio?"

"Will radio ever be built into an iPod?"

"And what's peculiar about that is that such gadgets are indeed on the market. But they aren't manufactured by Apple and they don't have 75% of the mp3 player market, the way the iPod does... Thus there is no chance - none whatsoever - that Apple computer will ever in a million years add an FM (or HD) radio to their shiny little miracle child."

http://www.hear2.com/2006/08/will_radio_ever.html

"The FM-Free iPhone"

"The NAB Board meeting in Washington this week has FM on cellphones as a big agenda item. Too bad the NAB and most radio CEOs do not understand Apple CEO Steve Jobs' thinking in continuing to exclude FM radio from the increasingly popular iPhone... Of course there are technological issues that keep Apple from readily including FM on iPhones not the least of which is the fact that U.S. FM is not compatible in parts of Asia and Europe where different standards exist... Remember when the HD advocates ballyhooed the HD docking capability to use iTunes for music purchases. Hold that image. No one else can picture it -- especially the marketplace. Tagging got tagged out at home plate. What radio doesn't get -- and apparently isn't in the mood to see -- is that you can't cram a radio into a smart phone and expect an entire generation to use it like a Walkman."

Sweet - I hope so! AM-HD and FM-HD are being turned off in D.C.:

"They’re turning off HD in Washington, DC"

"Well, this time it’s not an anomaly or a digital exciter glitch—at least not that we can see. For weeks now the Washington, DC market has been turning off its HD Radio signals en masse. There is no longer any station in the market on AM broadcasting in HD. ESPN Deportes Radio/ Red Zebra’s 730 WXTR-AM long ago shut off the signal. But now that list includes 630 WMAL (Citadel); 570 WTNT (Clear Channel); Red Zebra’s 980 ESPN Radio; and 1500 WFED-AM (Bonneville). The FM list now includes 106.7 WJFK-FM (CBS Radio); 102.3 WWMJ-FM (Radio One); 104.1 WPRS-FM (Radio One) and 107.7 WWWT-FM (Bonneville)."

Michelle Obama Splashes London Fashion !
Wearing almost Uniform-Like Dresses which were clearly NOT a Fashion Statement and unbecoming someone holding the position of First Lady of the USA.

Hopefully, this will just last another couple of years at most otherwise we will be spending the rest of our lives going through another "Maunder Minimum".

This does not seem to be working very well. Where is a Rosetta stone when you need one. Well, keep working on the translation as you appear to be making some progress.

Nope, I'm not, because I don't believe in kooktardic things, like you do. You know, that Obama BC story kind of nonsense?

I hope you weren't a victim of the "black money" scam. Poor folks got ripped off, but all they needed to do was feel the "money" that was supposed to be dyed black was just black construction paper. A greedy kooktard is an easy mark. Well, any kooktard is an easy mark, just look at all the kooksites making money by preying on the weak minded gullible kooktards, like yourself.

- That is interesting, was the TV on of those hot chassis types by
- chance or standard linear power xtranformer power supply?

IIRC - It was a 1960's Zenith ?21" Color TV

By RACHEL D'ORO, Associated Press Writer – Fri Apr 3, 9:25 pm ET ANCHORAGE, Alaska – Police say Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin's sister-in-law is accused of breaking into the same home twice to steal money.
Deputy Wasilla Police Chief Greg Wood says 35-year-old Diana Palin was arrested Thursday after she was confronted by the homeowner in the governor's hometown of Wasilla. She faces two counts of felony burglary and misdemeanor counts of criminal trespass and theft.
Wood says tire tracks and shoe prints tied Palin to another break-in Tuesday in which $400 was taken. Police have not tied Palin to another burglary at the home last week.
Governor spokeswoman Meghan Stapleton says Palin is the half sister of the governor's husband and the family has no comment.
Diana Palin's husband says his wife has a court-appointed attorney.

No, it because I read the news. You know, the stuff you avoid, while cruising the kookpages where they take the Obama BC story seriously?

Kooktardery is in your DNA. One day, there will be a test for it. You will be "A Very Strong Positive".

Mr. Obama skilfully used Mr. Rezko to get what he needed from him, then left him twisting in the wind. Mr. Obama is ruthless.

For the financial crisis that has wiped out trillions in wealth, many have felt the lash of public outrage.

Fannie and Freddie. The idiot-bankers. The AIG bonus babies. The Bush Republicans and Barney Frank Democrats who bullied banks into making mortgages to minorities who could not afford the houses they were moving into.

But the Big Kahuna has escaped.

The Federal Reserve.

"(T)he very people who devised the policies that produced the mess are now posing as the wise public servants who will show us the way out," writes Thomas Woods in "Meltdown."
http://www.amazon.com/gp/product/1596985879?ie=UTF8&tag=humaneventson-20&linkCode=xm2&camp=1789&creativeASIN=1596985879

Already in its sixth week on the New York Times best-seller list, this eminently readable book traces the Fed's role in every financial crisis since this creature was spawned on Jekyl Island in 1913.

The "forgotten depression" of 1920-21 was caused by a huge increase in the money supply for President Wilson's war. When the Fed started to tighten at war's end, production fell 20 percent from mid-1920 to mid-1921, far more than today.

Why did we not read about that depression?

Because the much-maligned Warren Harding refused to intervene. He let businesses and banks fail and prices fall. Hence, the fever quickly broke, and we were off into "the Roaring Twenties."

But, the Fed reverted, expanding the money supply by 55 percent, an average of 7.3 percent a year, not through an expansion of the currency, but through loans to businesses.

Thus, when the Fed tightened in the overheated economy, the Crash came, as the stock market bubble the Fed had created burst.

Herbert Hoover, contrary to the myth that he was a small-government conservative, renounced laissez-faire, raised taxes, launched public works projects, extended emergency loans to failing businesses and lent money to the states for relief programs.

Hoover did what Obama is doing.

Indeed, in 1932, FDR lacerated Hoover for having presided over the "greatest spending administration in peacetime in all of history." His running mate, John Nance Garner, accused Hoover of "leading the country down the path to socialism." And "Cactus Jack" was right.

Terrified of the bogeyman that causes Ben Bernanke sleepless nights -- deflation, falling prices -- FDR ordered crops destroyed, pigs slaughtered, and business cartels to cut production and fix prices.

FDR mistook the consequences of the Depression -- falling prices -- for the cause of the depression. But prices were simply returning to where they belonged in a free market, the first step in any cure.

Obama is repeating the failed policies of Hoover and FDR, by refusing to let prices fall. Obama, with his intervention to prop up housing prices and Bernanke with his gushers of money to bail out bankrupt banks and businesses are creating a new bubble that will burst even more spectacularly.

The biggest myth, writes Woods, is that it was World War II that ended the Great Depression. He quotes Paul Krugman:

"What saved the economy and the New Deal was the enormous public works project known as World War II, which finally provided a fiscal stimulus adequate to the economy's needs."

This Nobel Prize winner's analysis, writes Woods, is a "stupefying and bizarre misunderstanding of what actually happened,"

Undoubtedly, with 29 percent of the labor force conscripted at one time or another into the armed forces, and their jobs taken by elderly men, women and teenagers with little work experience, unemployment will fall.

But how can an economy be truly growing 13 percent a year, as the economists claim, when there is rationing, shortages everywhere, declining product quality, an inability to buy homes and cars, and a longer work week? When the cream of the labor force is in boot camps or military bases, or storming beaches, sailing ships, flying planes and marching with rifles, how can your real economy be booming?

It was 1946, a year economists predicted would result in a postwar depression because government spending fell by two-thirds, that proved the biggest boom year in all of American history.

Why? Because the real economy was producing what people wanted: cars, TVs, homes. Businesses were responding to consumers, not the clamor of a government run by dollar-a-year men who wanted planes, tanks, guns and ships to blow things up.

"The Fed was the greatest single contributor to the crisis that unfolds before us," Woods writes of today, and "more dollars were created between 2000 and 2007 than in the rest of the republic's history."

After 9-11, the Fed kept interest rates low -- in one year as low as 1 percent. That money flooded into the housing and stock markets. And in 2008, as the Fed tightened, the bubble burst.

Now the money supply is again expanding, to rescue us from a crisis created by the previous expansion. Of Nicholas Biddle's Bank of the United States, the great Andrew Jackson was eloquent.

"It has tried to kill me," he said. "But I will kill it." And he did.

Should not this creature from Jekyl Island, for all its manifold crimes and sins against the republic, also be summarily put to death?

From Wikipedia:

"Earth itself is largely protected [emphasis added] from the solar wind by its magnetic field, which deflects most of the charged particles..."

If the solar wind is something we need to be protected from, why would a -weaker- solar wind put us in danger, as you seem to be implying? (If the solar wind got -stronger-, more than our magnetosphere could cope with, yes, then there would be danger).

Please 'splain.

"Although a weakening of the solar wind may not sound very important, the effects of this reduction will have serious implications, diminishing the natural defences of the heliopause (our Solar Systemï¿½s

269. 0baMa0 HHS Nominee Faces No Questions from Senate Tax Committee About Her Tax 'Errors'

Just two days after she revealed that she owed nearly $8,000 in back taxes, Kansas Gov. Kathleen Sebelius faced largely friendly questioning from the Senate Finance Committee Thursday – with no questions at all asked about her tax situation.

The committee has jurisdiction over tax issues.

What's more, only 11 senators – seven Democrats and four Republicans – out of a total 23 committee members had questions for Sebelius, who is President Obama's choice to be secretary of health and human services.

The sparse attendance and short, cordial exchanges between senators and Sebelius was surprising, since the same committee grilled another Obama nominee with tax problems in February -- current Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner.

Sebelius, who had appeared Tuesday before Sen. Edward Kennedy's (D-Mass.) Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee, was called before the Finance Committee because it oversees Medicare and Medicaid, two of the largest programs HHS administers.

Geithner had faced withering questions from Senate Republicans during his contentious confirmation hearing, questions that eventually led to his now famous admission that his use of tax preparation software TurboTax might have led to his failure to pay nearly $35,000 in taxes.

Sebelius, however, faced no such questioning from the Senate's tax committee, despite her admission that she could not document claimed charitable donations and had improperly deducted mortgage interest on a home she no longer owned.

The only mention of Sebelius' financial issues came from the governor herself, in response to committee chairman Max Baucus, who asked whether anything in her background might prevent her from executing her duties.

"Well senator, there were a couple of stocks found in my husband's portfolio which have been identified by the ethics officer and we have committed to, if I'm confirmed, divesting those stocks," Sebelius admitted.

Only four of the committee's 10 Republican members – Sens. Chuck Grassley of Iowa; Olympia Snowe of Maine; Pat Roberts of Kansas and Mike Enzi of Wyoming -- had any questions for Sebelius.

None of those questions involved Sebelius' tax situation.

Seven Democrats expressed satisfaction with her nomination -- and told the nominee they hope that she will be easily confirmed.

That's not a sale- it's the going price- 299.00
Durham Radio www.durhamradio.com here in Ontario has a price of 299.95 which is what I paid a month or so ago. I was in the store on Thursday, April 2nd, and they had a demo on display, so obviously they have some in stock.
REMEMBER, the price here of 299 is CANADIAN. The U.S. dollar is running at a premium of CLOSE TO 20% at the present time. So depending on Durham Radio's policy, that could be a saving of 50.00 to 60.00, except shipping charges add to cost. Their toll free line is (888) 426-1688. They close Saturday at 3 p.m.(E)
The 750 is a very good receiver, though lacking Sync and a few other minor bells and whistles. With a good outdoor antenna, reception is superb, with a very low noise floor, and believe me, you will hear stations you never knew were there.
Good Lisyening to All from SW4ever...

Thanks for the quote...but I believe the original author is being a little bit of an alarmist.

Yes, the heliosphere (created by the solar wind) does indeed somewhat moderate the cosmic rays reaching the earth. However:

1) Most of the cosmic moderation is done by the earth's magnetosphere, not the heliosphere.

2) The intensity of the solar wind normally varies significantly; i.e., we can't always count on it in any event.

3) Of the 2.3 milliSieverts of background radiation received on earth annually, only 0.3 mSv is from "cosmic" sources, and of that 0.3 mSv, only a small, variable amount is taken care of by the heliosphere (with the magnetosphere doing the bulk of the work).

So again, I think the original author is being a bit of an alarmist because the solar wind/heliosphere does not give us -that- much protection. Now if you want to worry, worry about the strength of our magnetosphere going low. :-)

SW4ever,
Keep up the "radio on-topic posts"! Between you, John Plimmer and some other hardy souls, this group is otherwise pure garbage! I have almost all the "noise" filtered out, and it still comes through when someone "quotes" the plonkers. I am a boatanchor guy, Hammarlund 145/Lafayette HE-10/S-38, and four old portables: DX-440/Panasonic RF-2200/Redsun 2100(bought on John Plimmer's thoughts of the model, and an oddball, a Knight Star Roamer for hometown MW listening.
Keep up the SW and radio post, there are some of us out here still listening!

Which some scientists say is overdue (a polarity shift/switch). This has supposedly happened at least one other time since life appeared on Earth, so it wouldn't be an extinction level event.. but would sure mess things up for a few hundred to a few thousand years.

I'll need to look into a few suitcases. One for the Quantum gear and the other for the KIWA loop.

When I was staying at the Sheraton in central Lima, Peru, my reception was surprisingly good without any problems with HF interference. I'd forgotten how good reception can be when you are near an ocean.

The 'hit' on "Michelle Obama" is actually not directed at "MO" herself when she left the US and arrived in the UK going on AF#1 and exiting; "MO" was dressed very well befitting America's First Lady. But in other Pubic Appearances "MO's" clothing did not become her. "MO" needs a better First Lady's Staff that provides her with quality fashion advise and wardrobe support as America's First Lady.

When the Press report that "MO" wore her 'Office Sweater'* for a Public Appearance to visit with the British PM at #10
* Then clearly the First Lady's Staff Failed Her.

I like it! But there's a limit to just how kooky a kooktard the N.Koreans will tolerate, and as kooky as their leaders have been, an Obama BC kooktard will just be too much.

They have a bunch of old, but still clean and intact suitcases at the local Goodwill store that would make decent cases for a smaller HF rig like an Icom 706, or 7000, if foam was put in them and trimmed to fit the radios. They were like 10-15 bucks each. Hard to beat for the price.
I used the gun cases because they were insanely cheap, I think I bought 4 small ones and two big ones, and including shipping, the total was $55 or $65, can't remember now. They are aluminum and while not indestructible, they are pretty close.

When I was in suburban Atlanta a few years ago, I was shocked how bad the reception was on my Rf-2200. It was ok at the place I was staying in Panama City, Fl, but the place in Atlanta was horrible. Hash all over, snapping at random times, buzzing from something else. Even on batteries, it was intolerable. Scanning was fine though, nice and quiet, just a few freqs had to be locked out due to intermod from a nearby FM station.

I don't need help. Maybe you do since you are having trouble acknowledging news reports. People are pushing this and court cases are pending. Whether anything will come it I don't know. Talk about shooting the messenger you and BDK take the cake. If you keep this crap up you are going to look as bad as BDK the news group Kookaburra looks. It's your choice.

There could be other effects. More cosmic dust can enter the solar system changing the EM conductivity of the space around earth.

Don't tell me you are going to hold a gun to your head and threaten to shoot next. Just put the gun down now.

The march for Lovelle Mixon warrants disdain.

The Oakland supporters of the murderous rapist Lovelle Mixon can be proud to have 3.5 times the National Average in murder, 1.8 times the National Average in forcible rape, 2.78 times the National Average in robbery, Is 1.87 times the National Average in aggravated assault. Oaklanders, take a bow!

The five-year average for homicide suspects in Oakland breaks down as follows: 64.7% Black, 8.6% Hispanic, 0.2% White, 2.0% Asian and 24.4% Unknown. That's one stat where Blacks should be proud of.

Despite comprising only 30-35% of the population, African-Americans are over-represented in crime statistics, with the majority of crimes occurring in heavily African-American neighborhoods.

With crime so high in Oakland, who'd want their work taken home?

In a November, 2008 Congressional Quarterly Press publication, the city of Oakland has the dubious distinction of ranking fifth worst in a nationwide ranking of violent crime. The ranking takes into account six crime categories: murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary and motor vehicle theft. CQ Press has used these categories for determining city crime rankings since 1999. In contrast, other Bay Area cities ranked this way. Richmond was number nine, Vallejo 67, San Francisco 102, Hayward 125 and Berkeley 132.

Direction finding would be the least of the problems. Radiation would be much more significant, extinction of some species that rely on magnetic fields for navigation, etc., and of course there would be no magnetic field at all for a few hundred years which would affect a lot of technologies.

Interesting results. Though she only had a short time as 1st Lady I did expect Betty Ford to score higher; also expected Barbara Bush to have a higher rating.

Yea, I know that. I maybe used the bad choice of saying the word sale. I should have said that Radio Shack is now selling them. Got to see one today in the RS here. And it does look really good. I guess production problems have been solved (rumor says the Earthquake in China last year really cut down the production).

I'm hooked on the portability of the G5 and G6. The S350 is my bedtime SW radio. So the 750 looks nice but I really don't have the need for it and it won't do anything more than what I got now.

Going to be tough to sell the 750 at $300 bucks at RS, especially if a novice sees the $100 S350 next to it.

Short Lived Public Memory

Also explains Laura Bush's High Rating since she was the most recent 'former'
First Lady and Michelle Obama's Rating since she is the current First Lady and has only been it for less than 100 Days.

- The Oakland supporters of the murderous rapist Lovelle Mixon can be
- proud to have 3.5 times the National Average in murder, 1.8 times the
- National Average in forcible rape, 2.78 times the National Average in
- robbery, Is 1.87 times the National Average in aggravated assault.
- Oaklanders, take a bow!

Mayor Jerry Brown [D] promised it; and Mayor Ron Dellums [D] delivered on the promise to make Oakland a National Leader and Trend setter.

- The five-year average for homicide suspects in
- Oakland breaks down as follows: 64.7% Black,
- 8.6% Hispanic, 0.2% White, 2.0% Asian and
- 24.4% Unknown. That's one stat where Blacks
- should be proud of.
- Despite comprising only 30-35% of the population,
- African-Americans are over-represented in crime
- statistics, with the majority of crimes occurring in
- heavily African-American neighborhoods.

Most of which is Black-on-Black Crime as it is with White-on-White Crime along with Hispanic-on-Hispanic Crime and Asian-on-Asian Crime

Plus the Unknown-on-Unknown Crime is a very significant factor in Oakland's Crime Rate.

About 50% of Oakland's Homicide Crimes are Ex-Con-on-Ex-Con : Which does help to reduce the recidivism rate for the State in the long term.

> >The OPD does not view itself as part of the City of

- With crime so high in Oakland,
- who'd want their work taken home?

Over time {15~20 Years} -if- Oakland were in-fact 'their' {OPD Offficers} Home the City would get clean-up.

- In contrast, other Bay Area cities ranked this way.
- Richmond was number nine, Vallejo 67, San
- Francisco 102, Hayward 125 and Berkeley 132.

Many/Most of the Bodies of Berkeley Crime Victims are transported-to and deposited-in Oakland.

now that is a way to clean-up a city ~ RHF

- Who'd want to live in Oakland?
- Berkeley is much nicer.

Yeah even Oakland's Mayor still wishes that he still lived in Berkeley.

- Just two days after she revealed that she owed
- nearly $8,000 in back> taxes,
- Kansas Gov. Kathleen Sebelius faced largely
- friendly questioning from the Senate Finance
- Committee Thursday – with no questions at all
- asked about her tax situation.
- The committee has jurisdiction over tax issues.
- What’s more, only 11 senators – seven Democrats
- and four Republicans – out of a total 23 committee
- members had questions for Sebelius, who is
- President Obama’s choice to be secretary of health
- and human services.
- The sparse attendance and short, cordial exchanges
- between senators and Sebelius was surprising, since
- the same committee grilled another Obama nominee
- with tax problems in February -- current Treasury
- Secretary Timothy Geithner.
- Sebelius, who had appeared Tuesday before
- Sen. Edward Kennedy’s (D-Mass.) Health, Education,
- Labor and Pensions Committee, was called before
- the Finance Committee because it oversees Medicare
- and Medicaid, two of the largest programs HHS administers.
- Geithner had faced withering questions from Senate
- Republicans during his contentious confirmation hearing,
- questions that eventually led to his now famous
- admission that his use of tax preparation software
- TurboTax might have led to his failure to pay nearly
- $35,000 in taxes.
- Sebelius, however, faced no such questioning from
- the Senate’s tax committee, despite her admission
- that she could not document claimed charitable
- donations and had improperly deducted mortgage
- interest on a home she no longer owned.

- The only mention of Sebelius' financial issues came
- from the governor herself, in response to committee
- chairman Max Baucus, who asked whether anything
- in her background might prevent her from executing
- her duties.
- "Well senator, there were a couple of stocks found
- in my husband's portfolio which have been identified
- by the ethics officer and we have committed to,
- if I'm confirmed, divesting those stocks,"
- Sebelius admitted.
- Only four of the committee’s 10 Republican members
- – Sens. Chuck Grassley of Iowa; Olympia Snowe of Maine;
- Pat Roberts of Kansas and Mike Enzi of Wyoming
- -- had any questions for Sebelius.
- None of those questions involved Sebelius' tax situation.
- Seven Democrats expressed satisfaction with her
- nomination -- and told the nominee they hope that
- she will be easily confirmed.

It would have been better when some banks went bankrupt, and people lost their money. We would have called it "darwinism".

You mean such as Muzak and the like?

No, not illegal to monitor, unless you are using such for commercial purposes.

A tiny minority. The vast majority of climate-competent scientists agree global warming is man-made and is a serious emergency. Sure there are crooked oil-industry scientists just like there were crooked tobacco industry scientists. There's a lot of oil money for lying to the public by denying the fact of human-caused global warming.

At any rate, it's almost beyond question that humans are causing it.

342. Liberal Fascist 0baMa0 Wants to Control the Banks - HEIL HITLER!

There's a reason he refuses to accept repayment of TARP money.

The government wants to control the banks, just as it now controls GM and Chrysler, and will surely control the health industry in the not-too-distant future. Keeping them TARP-stuffed is the key to control.
And for this intensely political president, mere influence is not enough. The White House wants to tell 'em what to do. Control. Direct.
Command.
After 35 years in America, I never thought I would see this. I still can't quite believe we will sit by as this crisis is used to hand control of our economy over to government. But here we are, on the brink. Clearly, I have been naive.

Show a valid dictionary links, not right wing hacks' references trying to sell books. The right wing is very long on rhetoric, quite short on substance and facts. Otherwise, the term is just another bit of rhetorical wishful thinking. The point is, the two words are mutually exclusive. Period.

Table for Bitter, party of one...

Roy. For humor to work it must have a certain amount of truth in it.
Bush as a dolt is funny, because Bush is somewhat doltish.

Note # C

"ï¿½ 2510. Definitions
...

(16) "readily accessible to the general public" means, with respect to a radio communication, that such communication is not--

(A) scrambled or encrypted:

(B) transmitted using modulation techniques whose essential parameters have been withheld from the public with the intention of preserving the privacy of such communication;

(C) carried on a subcarrier or other signal subsidiary to a radio transmission;

(D) transmitted over a communication system provided by a common carrier, unless the communication is a tone only paging system communication; or

(E) transmitted on frequencies allocated under part 25, subpart D, E, or F of part 74, or part 94 of the Rules of the Federal Communications Commission, unless, in the case of a communication transmitted on a frequency allocated under part 74 that is not exclusively allocated to broadcast auxiliary services, the communication is a two-way voice communication by radio;"

350. John Batchelor Show Broadcast Schedule - TONIGHT: N.Korea/Tehran

TONIGHT: N.Korea/Tehran - John Batchelor Show Broadcast Schedule

http://johnbatchelorshow.com/schedules/2009/04/sunday-april-5-2009-in-ny-dc-sf-la/

Gordon Chang, Forbes.com, and I [John Batchelor] have spoken for the last four weeks re the North Korea missile and the inadequate response by the six-party talkers; and we will speak at length Sunday 5 in several parts. My contribution is to say that Tehran is running this show. Tehran responds to pressure and confrontation. When Washington is strong and assertive, Tehran play acts at being a sullen Third World victim. When Washington is beseeching, the Tehran regime tries a stealthy provocation such as abduction or naval exercises in the Gulf or a surrogate missile launch. It is the same Tehran regime, two sides of the same coin. Tehran is a predator. The regime consists of shrewd, fanatical, pious Twelvers who believe in hastening the apocalypse that will welcome the Mahdi, the Twelfth Imam. The delusional puppet Ahmadinejad is a Hastener. The pretentious Ayatollah Khameni and his greedy, ravenous, reportedly sexually-compulsive Council of Experts are Hasteners. You deal with Hasteners by hastening them. The suggestion of striking the missile on the pad was positive. There is also a chance of detaining and interrogating the Tehran ops as they fly back from North Korea. I have learned from Amir Taheri's new book, "Persian Night," that it is not necessary to bash or bloody the regime. A clap of the hands scares them. They also scurry from loud words or collective disapproval. They live in their own delusions. Very little of the regime's claims about a Twelfth Imam or descendants of Mohammed or even correct behavior while waiting for paradise is based upon reality. It may all be accidental or lunatic fiction. For example, the cranky and, at the end, hallucinatory R. Khomeini called himself the Thirteenth Imam. This was ludicrous, even by the rules that existed at the time. The Tehran regime makes up what it needs at the moment and then forgets its own assertions. All is deception. Peace-making is a scam. War-making is only done with surrogates. Like other tyrannies based upon self-invented, non-rational beliefs, the Tehran regime must go too far, it cannot turn away from its own suicide. Just now, the Obama administration is pretending that Tehran is not connected to the missile launch by the Kim regime. This is shopworn appeasement. It will not work just because the Tehran regime will soon respond with another poke in Uncle Sam's other eye.

The highest levels of the Obama administration are infested with members of a shadowy, elitist cabal intent on installing a one-world government that subverts the will of the American people.

It sounds crazy, but that’s what a group of very persistent conspiracy theorists insists, and they point to President Obama’s nominee for Health and Human Services Secretary, Kansas Gov. Kathleen Sebelius, as the latest piece of evidence supporting their claims.

It turns out that Sebelius – like top administration economists Timothy Geithner, Larry Summers and Paul Volcker, as well as leading Obama diplomats Richard Holbrooke and Dennis Ross – is a Bilderberger. That is, she is someone who has participated in the annual invitation-only conference held by an elite international organization known as the Bilderberg group.

You could try Ebay. That's where I got mine.

It only receives one of what I understand to be two subcarriers for each FM frequency. Doubtless "made" for a specific service.

I put "made" in quotes because it's modified and rebadged as "Bonneville International Corporation" (or something like that -- the text is very small). Nonetheless, the radio itself has a very clear Panasonic label affixed to the speaker grill cloth. (It's an RE-6518, according to the back label.)

The thing blows on AM (to be expected, I guess) but with an external FM wire antenna it's okay. And the SCA decoding is good enough.

Odd thing, though: for a small tabletop radio, it has one, LARGE speaker (maybe 4 or 5 inches) that excels at filling a small room with music. But it SUX at providing crisp human speech.

Anyways, I like to turn it on every few months to check out what's on NYC's FM subcarriers.

Oh give it a rest. The ice melting has been overstated due to satellite detector calibration and processing of the data.

And it is not the majority but only some scientists.

A vacuous assertion at best started by the most empty headed person on earth Al "what's good for me isn't for you" Gore.

And for the last time it's scientific theory you moron. This issue is far from settled and like any theory it is continually tested to see that the predictive ability of the "man made global warming" follows all empirical evidence and can explain it. You don't put an unproven scientific theory in a box labeled done.

There are scientists, climatologists actually, that think we are headed toward an ice age.

The problem is governments lead by global elitist's taking a course of action that will drastically change our lives for no good reason.

Stick with changes on the sun that affect the hobby and you will be closer to the reason for current climatological events.

said Friday that he will organize a demonstration next week outside Obama Fried Chicken in his Brooklyn district. Organizers said they also may target Obama Fried Chicken & Pizza in Harlem.

"People from the community were calling me and saying they were outraged by this racist connection to Barack Obama and fried chicken," Barron said. "If you think that free speech gives you the right to insult and degrade us and stereotype us, then you've got a battle on your hands."

"Over the past 50 years, the peninsula has been one of the fastest warming places on the planet.

Many of its ice shelves have retreated in that time and six of them have collapsed completely (Prince Gustav Channel, Larsen Inlet, Larsen A, Larsen B, Wordie, Muller and the Jones Ice Shelf).

Separate research shows that when ice shelves are removed, the glaciers and landed ice behind them start to move towards the ocean more rapidly.
It is this ice which can raise sea levels, but by how much is a matter of ongoing scientific debate.

Such acceleration effects were not included by the UN's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) when it made its latest projections on likely future sea level rise. Its 2007 assessment said ice dynamics were poorly understood. "

Muzak has not used SCA distribution for decades... it is wired or via satellite.

Anyone who thinks that 6 billion people can't have an effect on this planet need to learn how to think!

Every industry tends to play up the good and play down the bad. You'd be surprised at how often that really happens.

You're putting your faith in news reports? How "objective" of you! Why don't you try that rational with the USA Supreme Court? How dare they not consider news reports when making decisions!

Well, that settles that - he's a Moslem. No one, much less a President of the United States, who is not a Moslem would deeply bow to a Saudi Wahhabi tyrant in an act of utter submission.

This is the most disgraceful act of any president in American history. Wahhabism is the most evil religion on earth, a religion of hate which the Saudi king spends billions promoting around the world.
To bow to its principal proponent is submission to evil, an announcement of one's true beliefs.

No patriotic American can ever again, upon seeing this picture and understanding its meaning, consider this man to be the legitimate president of his country.

27 March 2009

Editor, The New York Times
620 Eighth Avenue
New York, NY 10018

To the Editor:

A headline about New York Senator Kirsten Gillibrand reads "As New Lawyer, Senator Defended Big Tobacco" (March 27). I ask: Are you capable of writing "tobacco" without prefacing it with the word "big"? Similarly, can you write "oil" without the same ominous preface?

These industries indeed are big, but each is a dwarf compared to Uncle Sam.

So why do you not routinely describe government as "big government"? The menacing overtones of such a description are especially appropriate for the state because, unlike "big tobacco" and "big oil," government uses violence against persons who refuse to fund its budget and otherwise do its bidding.

Sincerely,
Donald J. Boudreaux

I won't posit a cause for it, but I hope someone figures out how to stop it.
Lest we be in deep poop that would make global warming seem like a day at

Part of the problem is that humans, as a species, tend to egocentricity.
Anything else is based upon what we as individuals find appealing. We really have trouble with the concept of there being 6 billion others that all add up to cause global change. If population continues to grow at the rate it has for the past 50 years (it's doubled in that time), there will likely be a vast increase in pollution levels (both air and water) and a severe shortage of food to feed everyone. The planet has only so many resources, and unless we have developed FTL space travel, once those are gone, so are we..

The way is for minority communities in the city to step up to the plate and make the police feel welcomed. Policemen become policemen because they want to serve the community, but more times than not the community is hostile to the police. Who'd want to raise a family in a hostile environment.

The only bad thing, the Latino gangs made parts of it unbearable except the neighborhoods adjacent to Cal.

Again, if you are going to look at global warming you have to look at the planet as a whole. The weather is always changing and the average temperatures go up in one place and down in another. The temperature going up in one area does not mean much.

Anyone that thinks people are the biggest influence on climate must have Egocentric yes. The world is a big place and we are nowhere near having to many people. Education and culture are the key to managing population. The third world nations have the population boom. Once their standard of living is higher having big families to survive will become a thing of the past as it has in all the advanced nations. The world population will then stabilize.

The problem is the liberal elite that want to make this an issue. Keep swallowing the liberal line and where that gets you is limits on the number of kids you can have, limits on what you can own, limits on your use of transportation, on energy use of any type, but not for them of course, as the "elite" that make these decisions in your life will not be subject to these limitations.

Toyota's U.S. Pain Amplified as Drivers Shun Lexus (Update1)

By Alan Ohnsman

April 6 (Bloomberg) -- Toyota Motor Corp.'s $64,000 Lexus LS sedan and $67,000 Lexus SC Coupe are magnifying the carmaker's financial pain in the biggest auto market.
Sales of the best-selling luxury car brand in the U.S. fell 37 percent in the first quarter, led by a drop in demand for the most expensive models. The company has sacrificed profit margins to stanch the decline.
Toyota had its first annual loss in six decades as the global recession decimates auto sales. Surging incentives at other luxury brands including Bayerische Motoren Werke AG, Daimler AG and Audi AG has forced the Toyota City, Japan-based carmaker to more than quadruple discounts on Lexus models in the last two years, according to Edmunds.com.
"Since 2002, we estimate this is the cheapest time ever to buy a Lexus," said Jesse Toprak, director of analysis for Santa Monica, California-based Edmunds.com. "The increase in incentives comes straight from the bottom line."
U.S. Lexus sales shrank 27 percent in Toyota's fiscal year that ended March 31, versus a combined 23 percent drop for Toyota and Scion models. While the premium line accounts for 12 percent of Toyota's overall U.S. volume, analysts estimate it has generated a much larger portion of profit.
Higher Profits
"Luxury vehicles are always more profitable. The margins are higher, the absolute dollars are higher," said Efraim Levy, a New York-based equity analyst for Standard & Poor's. "Lexus has been one of the drivers for Toyota's rapid earnings growth in North America in recent years."
Toyota doesn't disclose financial details for the brand, said Greg Thome, a Lexus spokesman. He declined to confirm a 2004 estimate from former Lexus general manager Denny Clements that, depending on sales volume, product cycles and exchange rates, Lexus generated more than half of Toyota's U.S. earnings in some years.

The drop for Lexus models that sell for an average of $41,000 according to Edmunds.com, also erases revenue Toyota needs to combat the costs of under-used North American plants. Edmunds.com's Toprak estimates that average incentive spending on Lexus vehicles jumped to a record $3,179 in this year's first three months from just $785 in 2007.
Toyota's shares have gained 27 percent so far this year, lagging behind a 47 percent gain at Honda Motor Co. and a 45 percent increase for Nissan Motor Co.
Lexus, Camry
"A Lexus can't cost three times as much to build as a Camry, so it's been an extremely good business," said Jeffrey Scharf, president of Santa Cruz, California-based Scharf Investments, a $500 million fund that sold its shares of Toyota in 2008. "If the trend toward higher-priced vehicles has peaked, their profits would be deteriorating," Scharf said.
Recession, weak consumer sentiment and rising job losses have cut sales of new vehicles this year to the lowest level since the early 1980s, down 38 percent through March.
Lexus' drop mirrors the overall plunge for luxury cars and sport-utility vehicles, which are down 38 percent in the first quarter, according to sales tracker Autodata Corp.
Customer Growth Partners LLC, a retail consulting firm in New Canaan, Connecticut, estimates overall U.S. luxury purchasing has fallen 21 percent this year, after a 12 percent drop in 2008's fourth quarter.
The jump in incentives was the result of clearing out supplies of RX SUVs, the top-selling Lexus, when a new version recently went on sale, according to Mark Templin, Lexus's general manager.
Incentives
Overall luxury car incentives averaged $4,022 last month and luxury SUV discounts were $3,944, according to Edmunds.com. Lexus first-quarter incentives trailed BMW, which offered $4,936 per vehicle and Mercedes-Benz's average of $4,569. The two European companies increased such spending last month, while Lexus' dropped to $1,928.
Luxury segment competitors' "incentive spending is at incredible levels now and that's not necessarily the best way to run a business," Templin said. "Our focus at Lexus has never been on volume."
In Japan, Lexus sales sank 50 percent in March and 35 percent in the just-ended business year, according to figures the company released this week.
"The global luxury car market is expected to remain tough," said Mamoru Kato an analyst at Tokai Tokyo Securities in Tokyo. "The brand will continue to struggle."
While the recession cuts Lexus demand, not all of Toyota's models are losing sales. Sales of the Passo compact car surged 31 percent in February in Japan. The car costs $13,000.

The solution is to make Soylent Green out of global warming elitists.
There is no shortage of those. Al Gore could feed an entire third world nation by himself.

'Organic' Light-Emitting-Diodes (LEDs) rather than Liquid Crystals (LCDs).
http://tech.yahoo.com/news/ap/20090403/ap_on_hi_te/tec_cell_phone_show_new_phones

Since Organic LEDs emit their own light, rather than filtering a fluorescent backlight like LCDs, they can Save on Battery Life and provide Better Image Quality.

I'm sure he can find something more worthwhile to listen to than AM talk radio. If the host wasn't a kooktard him/herself, it might be worth listening to, but if the host doesn't play with the callers, it's no fun at all. Kind of like with Rush when all the callers do is kiss his ass.
It's boring.

LOL, what are you talking about Telemundoh? I simply fixed my post to save you the effort it might take you to "decipher" it.

I think you need a nice nap.

k00k! The earth has gotten warm, the earth has gotten cool. Not a dang thing we can do about it.

Personally, I look forward to tropic breezes and palm trees in Michigan!

Interesting article, and there are others. As I recall, Bruce Elving has sold, and may still sell the mod kits for various radios. He also has published the FM Atlas and Station Directory for a good number of years.

I have two pocket portable radios designed for SCA reception (68 and 92 KHz). Both have regular FM and a switch on the back to go between FMBC and SCA, with another switch on the front to go between SCA frequencies. Both are sold widely in the US.

The "liberal elite" are subject to intense scrutiny right now. I doubt the people who swept away the business-as-usual Republicans in the past couple years will have any more patience for unrespnsive Democrats.

It is illegal to monitor SCA broadcasts in the USA.

1. Illegal to monitor cellular phone transmissions
2. Illegal to monitor cordless phone transmissions
3. Illegal to monitor scrambled/encrypted signals
4. Illegal to monitor SCA signals
5. Illegal to monitor voice paging signals
6. Illegal to monitor remote radio-TV broadcast signals
7. Illegal to monitor outside residence in a few states
8. Illegal to monitor by convicted persons in a few states
9. Illegal to monitor in vehicles in some states
10. Illegal to manufacture cellular-capable receivers
11. Illegal to modify to receive cellular signals
12. Illegal to import cellular-capable receivers
13. Illegal to use as an aid in commission of crime in most states
14. Illegal to use information heard for personal gain
15. Illegal to disclose or publish information heard to third party
(for signals which are NOT "readily accessible to the public")

Increase in pollution?

Just wait until you see how the rising Indian and Chinese economy will allow tens of millions of Indians and Chinese to trade in their bicycles for automobiles.

THEN you will see an increase in pollution.

Mayo Says Loan Losses Will Exceed Depression Levels (Update2)

By Michael J. Moore
April 6 (Bloomberg) -- Mike Mayo, who left Deutsche Bank AG last month and joined CLSA, assigned an “underweight” rating to U.S. banks and predicted loan losses will exceed levels from the Great Depression.
U.S. stocks dropped after Mayo gave “sell” ratings to banks including Winston-Salem, North Carolina-based BB&T Corp. and Cincinnati’s Fifth Third Bancorp. Bank of America Corp. and JPMorgan Chase & Co., the two biggest U.S. banks by assets, were assigned “underperform” ratings, Mayo said in a report today.
“While certain mortgage problems are farther along, other areas are likely to accelerate, reflecting a rolling recession by asset class,” Mayo wrote. “New government actions might not help as much as expected, especially given that loans have been marked down to only 98 cents on the dollar, on average.”
The 46-year-old Mayo gained a reputation for independence at Frankfurt-based Deutsche Bank for his willingness to put a “sell” rating on banks and to criticize investors and companies for trying to curb objective analysis. At Deutsche, Mayo had “sell” or “hold” ratings on all 18 companies he covered, according to data compiled by Bloomberg.
CLSA is an affiliate of New York-based Calyon Securities.
Bank of America, based in Charlotte, North Carolina, fell 21 cents, or 2.8 percent to $7.39 at 10:14 a.m. in New York Stock Exchange composite trading. New York-based JPMorgan dropped 91 cents, or 3.1 percent, to $28.37. The KBW Bank Index lost 4.2 percent, the first decline in five days.
Card Losses
Mayo said he expects loan losses to increase to 3.5 percent, and even as high as 5.5 percent in a stress scenario, by the end of 2010.
Mortgage-related losses are about halfway to their peak, while credit-card and consumer losses are only a third of the way to their expected highest levels, according to Mayo, who declined to comment beyond the report.
The nation’s largest banks may be transitioning from a financial crisis marked by writedowns of capital to an economic crisis featuring large loan losses, Mayo wrote. The U.S. government cannot provide much relief because its actions will lead to either banks having to raise new capital or toxic assets remaining on banks' balance sheets, Mayo wrote.

Mayo said solutions to the banking crisis will take time, as the increase in risk happened over a decade or more.
CLSA's underperform rating reflects the expectation that the stock will underperform the local market by 0 to 10 percent, while a sell rating expects it to fare worse by more than 10 percent, according to the report.
Meredith Whitney, who left Oppenheimer & Co. in February to found Meredith Whitney Advisory Group LLC, said in a Forbes interview that banks will continue to write down their mortgage assets as home prices decline further than lenders expected. The unemployment rate also has exceeded banks' projections and could lead to further loan losses, Whitney said.

PNC, Marshall & Ilsley, BB&T Ponder Sale of Stakes to Treasury
By Linda Shen
Oct. 17 (Bloomberg) -- PNC Financial Services Group Inc., Marshall & Ilsley Corp. and BB&T Corp. may join nine large U.S. banks that have agreed to sell stakes to the government. The nation's other 8,400 regional lenders are still making up their minds.
Marshall & Ilsley, Wisconsin's largest bank, said today it's considering Treasury Secretary Henry Paulson's offer to inject $250 billion into lenders by purchasing preferred shares. PNC and BB&T, ranked among the 25 largest banks by assets, said they may sign up because the plan is a source of cheap capital.
The largest U.S. banks including Citigroup Inc. and Goldman Sachs Group Inc. will be given the first $125 billion under the Treasury plan and little choice about accepting. By contrast, smaller banks can decide whether they want to apply for the remaining half. Some say they're concerned about what restrictions regulators will impose on use of the money.
PNC, whose stock fell 6.5 percent this year through yesterday, is considering the Treasury plan ``very seriously'' and the board may take up the idea next week after more details are known, Chief Executive Officer James Rohr said yesterday. While the Pittsburgh-based network of 1,142 branches doesn't need the money, it's ``an opportunity to raise relatively inexpensive capital,'' Rohr said. Third-quarter profit fell 39 percent on asset writedowns.

Smaller banks must decide by Nov. 14 whether they want to participate in the Treasury program, said Camden Fine, chief executive of the Independent Community Bankers of America, a Washington-based trade group. The decision on who gets capital is left to the Treasury, which may reject banks that are too weak to save.
Preferred Stock
``It's in their economic interest,'' said David Nason, the Treasury's assistant secretary for financial institutions, in an Oct. 14 interview with Bloomberg Television.
Under Paulson's plan, the Treasury will buy preferred stock from banks that pays 5 percent annually for the first five years, and then rises to 9 percent. The government expects in return that banks will make more loans, Nason said.
Treasury spokeswoman Jennifer Zuccarelli said the program is being assembled speedily. ``Regarding smaller banks, we are working with the regulators to quickly establish details for participation in this program,'' she said.
``At this point, I think we'll pass,'' Philip Sherringham, CEO of People's United Financial Corp., told investors today during a conference call. The U.S. offer is ``not very attractive'' for the Bridgeport, Connecticut-based company -- the biggest bank based in New England -- because the money comes with ``strings attached'' and ``all kinds of constraints.''
Making the Cut
The fine print may affect how banks are run, said Ron Hermance, CEO of New Jersey's Hudson City Bancorp Inc., the nation's most valuable savings and loan by market value.
``Aren't you going to want to know where the money's being spent?'' Hermance said. ``I would want to see a list of the investments you're making, what loans, where, how. I have a feeling there will be examiners on the premises full-time.''
Hudson City's stock gained 16 percent this year through yesterday after he kept the Paramus, New Jersey-based bank with more than 100 branches out of subprime mortgages, the home loans most prone to default. Profit rose 64 percent in the third quarter.
Hermance is ``curious about who makes the cut'' in the Treasury program. ``In my mind, some of these banks should be allowed to fail -- they're hanging on by their knuckles.''
Pressure to Participate
Marshall & Ilsley said in a letter to shareholders today ``accelerating deterioration'' in the economy has prompted the bank to evaluate participation in Paulson's plan. The Milwaukee- based bank is also reviewing the dividend, which may be cut after 36 years of increases. The 32-cent payout already equals the company's quarterly profit. The stock has lost a quarter of its value this year.

Lenders are feeling pressure to participate even though the program's details haven't been made clear, BB&T CEO John Allison said yesterday. ``Regulators want us to do it, and you have to keep regulators happy,'' said Allison, whose bank is based in Winston-Salem, North Carolina and has $137 billion in assets, during a conference call. The stock has gained 8.4 percent in 2008.
Mike Daly, CEO of Berkshire Hills Bancorp Inc. based in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, said he'll decide after more is known about what demands the government will place on the company, which has $2.55 billion in assets and 48 offices.
Better Than Berkshire
George Ball, chairman of Houston-based brokerage firm Sanders Morris Harris Group, said the government will ``theoretically have very limited or no influence.'' The catch is that the program won't work unless regulators get a say over operations, he said. ``It's unlikely to be said -- and quite likely to happen,'' Ball said.
Still, regional banks may find the Treasury's offer irresistible, Ball said.
``If you compare it with Warren Buffett's terms, it's extremely cheap,'' he said. Buffett, the billionaire who runs Berkshire Hathaway Inc., got $5 billion in preferred shares with a 10 percent dividend and the right to buy $5 billion more in Goldman Sachs common stock over the next five years at $115 a share.
The U.S. restrictions, along with the jump in the interest rate on the preferred stock after five years, may motivate companies to buy back their stakes from the government as quickly as they can.
``If I'm Goldman Sachs, I'm figuring out how to get out of it now,'' Hermance said.

BB&T Donates $2 Million for Ayn Rand Research At The University of Texas at Austin
March 20, 2008
E-mail this article
AUSTIN, Texas — BB&T Corporation, one of the nation’s largest banks, has awarded $2 million to the Department of Philosophy at The University of Texas at Austin to establish the BB&T Chair for the Study of Objectivism.
Tara Smith, professor of philosophy, has been named the first holder of the chair. Over 10 years, the gift will support research on Ayn Rand’s philosophy of Objectivism, as well as conferences, workshops, guest lecturers, visiting scholars and research on the moral foundations of capitalism.
Smith spearheads Objectivism scholarship in the university’s philosophy department. She has published several articles on Rand's philosophy and the 2006 book, “Ayn Rand's Normative Ethics: The Virtuous Egoist” with Cambridge University Press. She holds the Anthem Foundation Fellowship for the Study of Objectivism and is organizing the interdisciplinary conference, “Objectivity in the Law,” April 4-5.

“Ayn Rand’s philosophy has been the subject of increasing academic interest in recent years, and this generous gift will allow us to deepen examination of her thought and engage leading scholars in other fields, such as law,” the Rand scholar said. “It’s an exhilarating opportunity and a testament to BB&T’s recognition of the vital importance of philosophy in people’s lives.”
Rand, a Russian-born American philosopher and novelist, is best known for her magnum opus, “Atlas Shrugged.” A joint survey conducted by the Library of Congress and the Book of the Month Club found that “Atlas Shrugged” is the second most influential book for Americans today, after the Bible. According to the Ayn Rand Institute, an estimated 20 million copies of her books have been sold.
“We believe that ideas matter. In this context, BB&T is trying to encourage a thorough and fair discussion of Rand’s philosophy and the moral foundations of capitalism on university campuses,” said BB&T Chief Executive Officer John Allison. “We are pleased to support the philosophy department's important work in the study of Objectivism at The University of Texas at Austin.”
BB&T Corp., headquartered in Winston-Salem, N.C., is a financial holding company with $132.6 billion in assets. With more than 29,000 employees, its bank subsidiaries operate more than 1,500 branch offices in 11 states and Washington, D.C.

I don't work in the petroleum industry. My position is not foolish the global warming idiots are the foolish ones.

Contextually it is a bad thing.

Contextually yes. You, Dave and I belong to the same group. We are not a part of the liberal elite though you may consider yourself "liberal". We will be required to downgrade our lives on the altar of global warming. The elite group comprised of human scum like Al Gore won't and he is positioning himself to make money off us in the process.

Global warming is a scam and you are the mark.

Weaker daytime reception on the mid to high bands but better nigh time reception on the lower bands at night. Conditions will be more stable and predictable with no radio blackouts.

The only enhanced reception you will probably get is around dawn and sunset.

That's yet another bad assumption on your part.

Nothing could be more boring than you.

Looking in the mirror again Kookaburra? All that noise you make has no effect.

Everybody is a kooktard to the Kookaburra. This behavior is nothing new.
I once had this bird sit on the car door pecking at its image in the side mirror convinced it was protecting its territory from a competitor.
It didn't matter how many times I chased it away.

Good deal Steve, another one bites the dust. FWIW, something I noticed yesterday actually, EVERYTIME either you / I / RHF and sometimes Telamon....especially you and me.....we are given a "one star" rating....LOL.

I'll give you one guess who is doing it. ;-) Now after I post this, of course it will change to more than just one person to try an make it look like I am wrong, but I thought it was pretty funny that  (last name) would literally go out of the way to track down every post just to give it a "poor rating." Human behavior, gotta love it.

You're not even making as much sense as you were before. You seem to be getting worse. I didn't think that was possible.

Seriously, you need help.

Someone who is an Obama BC kooktard shouldn't call anyone, or anything, retarded, Telemundoh.

Funny how almost everyone else disagrees. But a kooktard's perception isn't any more correct than his beliefs in total nonsense are.

It certainly couldn't be the PhDufus, could it?

He certainly wouldn't do that, would he?

And, as always, don't let your children attend Louisville Technical Institute.
They've hired at least one dufus who once claimed to have a PhD, and who knows, there may be more dufi there.

You are both wrong. Google will only accept one evaluation from each IP address. I think a lot of folks are fed up with the way y'all treat people.

Random thoughts on the passing scene:

http://townhall.com/Columnists/ThomasSowell/

I am so old that I can remember when music was musical.

Now that the federal government says that it will stand behind the warranties on General Motors' automobiles, does that make you more likely or less likely to buy a car from GM? If you were a rising young executive with a promising future, would you be more likely or less likely to go to work for a company where politicians can fire you?

We have become such suckers for words that politicians can spend our tax money like a drunken sailor, provided they call it "investment." At least the drunken sailor is spending his own money but people look down on him because he doesn't call it "investment."

Barack Obama seems determined to repeat every disastrous mistake of the 1930s, at home and abroad. He has already repeated Herbert Hoover's policy of raising taxes on high income earners, FDR's policy of trying to micro-manage the economy and Neville Chamberlain's policy of seeking dialogues with hostile nations while downplaying the dangers they represent.

We seem to be moving steadily in the direction of a society where no one is responsible for what he himself did but we are all responsible for what somebody else did, either in the present or in the past.

The famous editorial cartoonist Herblock could write as well as draw. In one of his books, he said something like: "You too can have the soothing feeling of nature's own baby-soft wool being pulled gently over your resting eyes." I think of that every time I see Barack Obama talking.

It has long been said that uncertainty is the hardest thing for a market to adjust to. No one can generate uncertainty as much as the government, which can change the rules in midstream or come out with some new bright idea at any time, as the current administration has already demonstrated.

We have now reached the truly dangerous point where we cannot even be warned about the lethal, fanatical and suicidal hatred of our society by Islamic extremists, because to do so would be politically incorrect and, in some European countries, would be a violation of the law against inciting hostility to groups.

Perhaps the scariest aspect of our times is how many people think in talking points, rather than in terms of real world consequences.

Barack Obama's favorable reception during his tour in Europe may be the most enthusiastic international acclaim for a democratic government leader since Neville Chamberlain returned from Munich in 1938, proclaiming "peace in our time."

How a man who holds the entire population of a country as his prisoners, and punishes the families of those who escape, can be admired by people who call themselves liberals is one of the many wonders of the human mind's ability to rationalize. Yet such is the case with Fidel Castro.

What does "economic justice" mean, except that you want something that someone else produced, without having to produce anything yourself in return?

Perhaps the way President Obama will reduce the deficit is by making more presidential appointments of people who will pay the back taxes they owe, in order to get confirmed by the Senate.

Liberals seem to think that they are doing lagging groups a favor by making excuses for counterproductive and self-destructive behavior. The poor do not need press agents. They need the truth. No one ever said, "Press agents will make you free."

If I were Secretary of the Treasury Timothy Geithner, I would not sign any long-term lease on a home in Washington.

Socialists believe in government ownership of the means of production. Fascists believed in government control of privately owned businesses, which is much more the style of this government. That way, politicians can intervene whenever they feel like it and then, when their interventions turn out badly, summon executives from the private sector before Congress and denounce them on nationwide television.

Typical idiotic comment by a product of the Liberal Fascist Public School System.
It should be framed for all thinking minds to ponder the mentality of

For Sale: Panasonic RF-5000 Portable Multi-Band shortwave radio.
Very nice heavy portable and includes all original documentation such as user manual, wave guides, schematics, etc. In very good condition both cosmetic and operational but one of the antennas is missing the screw-on tip.

The other radio is a Electro-Brand World Ranger multi-band with built in cassette player. Has twin antennas and is in very good condition with all accessories as new such as 12-volt adapter, manual, microphone, strap, earphone, etc. Has dual speakers and is very sensitive on the shortwave bands.

Asking $230 for the Panasonic which includes shipping in the US, and $80 for the Electro Brand in the US which also includes shipping.

Most people have problems comprehending the really large numbers. We use A.U. to represent 150 million km (93 million miles) and the mole in chemistry to deal with a large number of particles (6.022x10^23). The thought of 6 billion people is incomprehensible to most of us.

I have no doubt that there will be wars over clean water, arable land and other resources.

What makes you think that any country which has a high level of pressure on its current cropland land will have the time to have such an increase in the standard living to come into existence before having to decide which elements of its population survives or dies? There have been enough examples of the effects of catastrophic droughts on countries.
One failed crop harvest is all it takes.

Only gluttons fear limits. Which, in your case, doesn't surprise me!

That's been Telemundoh's problem all along. He is quite the sophist but he does have severe problems trying to formulate anything of substance.
He engages in pseudoscience and tries to pass it off as science.

The same factual information sources that tell you that BHO's BC isn't legit? Maybe you and Cuhulin can have a weekly Rense night.

That's your perception, which is unique to you, which has nothing to do

Only idiots like yourself continually project their fears and weaknesses upon other like you just did. When are you going to learn that a subject like "gluttony" that you just brought up comes from you as a unprovoked attack. If I was talking about hoarding food or eating all the time then you would be making commentary about it as a subject already under discussion. Since you brought this up out the blue this means it is an internal issue with you not me. Sort of the way a shrink uses ink blots to get you to talk about internal things that are an issue with you.
That make any sense to you?

And "limits" is not a "fear" but something I clearly don't want foisted upon myself and others by clueless liberal retards that would not know what worked if their life depended on it.

Yo yourself.

What is there to agree with? That you are ignorant? That you are cluelessly ignorant? Eventually you will realize that you are only choosing to believe one way or the other and that I, raising the question sent you and the Kookaburra into hysterics.

Now I ask you who is the moth?

Thanks for the heads up SC, I'm going up there tomorrow to pickup another set of headphones. I'll read up on that piece and see what the reviews say and check it out.

The G5/G6 is basically the same as the 750, just bigger?

I picked up two speakers years ago that is exactly opposite of what you said. They came from those mobile MRI buses that go to shopping centers or your place of business. Me and another fella were given permission to gut the bus after the real expensive equipment was taken out.

The speakers are called "Quam" and on the speakers it reads "Quam-The Sound Decision." There were eight inside the walls of the bus, I got four of them. They were made just for voice, it's pretty cool that music can sound so crappy but voice sounds scary clear plus, if that's possible. I have one scanner for each speaker, clearest voice speakers I've ever owned.

Where at Brenda Ann?

Both of mine came from dollar stores in NY. If you want one, I'd be happy to send you one. They're useless here (unless I put an SCA on my own FM transmitter).

I wouldn't be surprised either, at least physical trips. He takes mental ones to kookville all the time.

Hello shortwave lovers.

One of the reasons I developed HamSphere - the virtual Ionosphere, was the lack of sun spot activity. And I expected the system to hold for say a few years. And then see a declining amount of users as the real shortwave woke up again.

But I picked up a QSO on HamSphere the other day regarding sun spots. And I couldn't beleive my ears. They said that the sun spots might even disappear??? The sun's activity seems to be the lowest in many decades.
I haven't been on shortwave lately, but is it really that bad propagation people say?

Best regards
Kelly Linderman

Sowell is a senior fellow of the Hoover Institution at Stanford University which is a well-known Republican conservative retreat for political refugees from the Nixon and Bush administations.

>I am so old that I can remember when music was musical.

He was born June 30, 1930, so has no memory of the Great Depression.
This is a deciding factor in the thinking of many economists. They cannot know the state of mind of the people and its effects on the economy.

Rising young executives are not fired by politicians: they are promoted when the CEO is fired.

The failure of budgets to distinguish between expenses and investments is a serious flaw. Investments cost nothing because they leave behind an asset worth as much or more than their cost.

What "disastrous mistsake"? Ending the Bush tax cut for the rich will only return that tax to less than it was under Reagan. Calling it "raising taxes" is deliberately misleading.

What in the world is Sowell thinking of?

Surely "new bright idea" is not a bad thing. We voted for much needed new bright ideas -- change.

A serious problem that we can only hope the American melting pot will handle in America.

Such as "the war against terror" -- misleading talking point, meaningless.

What's wrong with an enthusiastic reception after the Bush years of stupidity?

What is the parallel Sowell is drawing? Chamberlain was a fool but his foolishness did buy time for England to prepare for war. There is no relationship to Obama's visit to Europe. Sowell is a conservative who is desperate for a whining point.

Reagan talked to Communists leaders. Reagan communicated. The conservatives say he defeated the USSR. Opening communication to Cuba is the best way to hasten the end of that regime.

>What does "economic justice" mean, except that you want something that Economic justice means equal opportunity and not excessive inequality.

Inequality tends to grow until the tumbrils roll and the guillotine drops.
Religions, such as that taught by the Bible, advocate ways of adjusting inequality. The progressive income tax is one such modern tool.

No political appointee has a long-term lease, nor should have.
What's Sowel's point regarding Geithner? Sowell is just sniping from long distance.

"Fascist" is a pet swear-word of conservatives. It connotes Hitler and Nazis and the holocaust. Its malicious use reveals the depth to which conservatism has fallen.

Well Ive seen everything now a simulated radio set in cyber space .. will it come over next doors hi-fi and break the tv up as well .. and can have cyber shouting matches as to who has the broken set up !! ?? too real .. too real

Someone posted a link to very old pictures of equipment and CW Stations. Could you post them again please.

Thanks

The call of the Kookaburra.

You dumbass, I have posted links in past posts to news stories. The stories are real but you however live in some fantasy world you created.

What a retard.

Fact-Is President Barack 'Hussein' Obama More Popular throughout the World then fromer us president GW Bush and thus is a Bigger Target for the Islam-O-Fascist :

1 - Instant Diversion : Throwing a Shoe at Bush at a Crowded Public Event.

2 - And in the same Instant : The Attack on the Target from the opposite-side.

FWIW - The use of a Knife means an Up-Close and Person-to-Personal 'Sucide' {Heroes} Attack. propaganda, Propaganda. PROPAGANDA !
praise on earth, The Glory of Paradise. 72 VIRGINS !

Someone 'That Close' would also have the President's Own Body as a Human Shield.

Clearly such an 'Attack' would be a Sucide {Hero} Mission for the Islamic Attacker.

The Knife Attack on such a "Target' as the US President is a single thrust attack because by the second thrust attempt anyone around the US President would be grabbing the Hand and Arm of the Attacker to prevent a second stabbing wound.

Note - The Knife 'Blade' does not have to be Metal to be effective.

Therefore the Single Thrust Knife Attack is always 'Assumed' to involve a Poisoned Blade.

EACH and EVERY Al Jazeera Journalist {Reporter} Staff Member should be presumed to be an ISLAM-O-FASCIST TERRORIST [.]
and that is the way i see it ~ RHF

I've seen the word used in a derogatory fashion mainly by communists and leftists.

If the extreme right is now using it, it's because most, if not all, of the Neo-Cons were to the extreme left before their overnight conversion to 'Conservative' thought.

They follow the perceived power bubble.

I know. That where I just shake my head and roll my eyes. We definitely now have a newsgroup "know-it-all." He is always right, no matter the subject and you are always wrong.....no matter the subject.

You do know Telamon, that you are just feeding him so too speak. Just stop replying to him, he'll really look like a kook just talking to himself or John. Because it is getting a tad old to watch the back and forth, I haven't followed the thread in a couple days because I know basically it is just you three now.

Now watch, he'll have a "know it all" response.<sigh>

I and Bush II.

LOL!!!
Ja, nur liberalen faschismus revolution uber alles!

Some useful idiots remain idiots all of their lives.

"The first book that got me interested in political issues was Actions and Passions by Max Lerner, which I read at age 19. It was a collection of his newspaper columns, none of which I remember today and all of which were vintage liberalism, which even Max Lerner himself apparently had second thoughts about in his later years." - Thomas Sowell

"The writings of Karl Marx-- especially The Communist Manifesto-- had the longest lasting effect on me as a young man and led me to become and remain a Marxist throughout my twenties. I wouldn't recommend The Communist Manifesto today either, except as an example of a masterpiece of propaganda." - Thomas Sowell

You and BDK either need to get a room or maybe move to his neighborhood, then you two can laugh hysterically and "glad hand" each other. Can this thread die, maybe guys?

Huh? I agree. I agree in the fact that.....nevermind....you've seen my posts about this subject which just goes to show you that you are lying saying that no one agrees with him.

Apparently the Red River may reach a second crest in Fargo, ND.

I sent an email off to KFGO 790, to find out if they will operate non-directional again at night.

Here is the response from Brad Wilson at KFGO regarding switching to non-directional again:

"Only if an emergency state is declared. 50/50 chance. They keep changing the 2nd river crest. We will know more after this weekend."

Very interesting read, especially after a few in here said "that there was no cause for concern" etc. etc. It should be enough to make one think and not just say "it won't happen here."

By: Newt Gingrich and William Forstchen Article Font Size

A sword of Damocles hangs over our heads. It is a real threat that has been all but ignored.

On Feb. 3, Iran launched a “communications satellite” into orbit. At this very moment, North Korea is threatening to do the same. The ability to launch an alleged communications satellite belies a far more frightening truth. A rocket that can carry a satellite into orbit also can drop a nuclear warhead over any location on the planet in less than 45 minutes.

Far too many timid or uninformed sources maintain that a single launch of a missile poses no true threat to the United States, given our retaliatory power.

A reality check is in order and must be discussed in response to such an absurd claim: In fact, one small nuclear weapon, delivered by an ICBM can destroy the United States by maximizing the effect of the resultant electromagnetic pulse upon detonation.

An electromagnetic pulse (EMP) is a byproduct of detonating an atomic bomb above the Earth’s atmosphere. When a nuclear weapon is detonated in space, the gamma rays emitted trigger a massive electrical disturbance in the upper atmosphere. Moving at the speed of light, this overload will short out all electrical equipment, power grids and delicate electronics on the Earth’s surface. In fact, it would take only one to three weapons exploding above the continental United States to wipe out our entire grid and transportation network. It might take years to recover from, if ever.

This is not science fiction. If you doubt this, spend a short amount of time skimming the Report of the Commission to Assess the Threat to the United States from Electromagnetic Pulse Attack from April 2008. You will come away sobered.

Even as the new administration plans to spend trillions on economic bailouts, it has announced plans to reduce funding and downgrade efforts for missile defense. Furthermore, the United States’ reluctance to invest in a modern and credible traditional nuclear deterrent is a serious concern. What good will a bailout be if there is no longer a nation to bail out?

Fifty years ago, it was not Sputnik itself that sent a dire chill of warning around the world; it was the capability of the rocket that launched Sputnik. The rocket that lofted Sputnik into orbit also could have served as an ICBM.

Yet for all its rhetoric, the Soviet Union was essentially a rational power that recognized the threat of mutual destruction and thus never stepped to the edge.

The world is different today. Intercontinental range missiles tipped with nuclear weapons in the hands of leaders driven by fanaticism, leaders that support global terrorism, leaders that have made repeated threats that they will seek our annihilation . . . can now at last achieve that dream in a matter of minutes.

Those who claim that there is little to fear from Iran or North Korea because “at best” they will have only one or two nuclear weapons ignore the catastrophic level of threat we now face from just “a couple” of nuclear weapons.

Again: One to three missiles tipped with nuclear weapons and armed to detonate at a high altitude — to achieve the strongest EMP over the greatest area of the United States — would create an EMP “overlay” that triggers a continent-wide collapse of our entire electrical, transportation, and communications infrastructure.

Within weeks after such an attack, tens of millions of Americans would perish. The impact has been likened to a nationwide Hurricane Katrina. Some studies estimate that 90 percent of all Americans might very well die in the year after such an attack as our transportation, food distribution, communications, public safety, law enforcement, and medical infrastructures collapse.

We most likely would never recover from the blow.

Two things need to be done now and without delay:

1. Make clear in the strongest of terms that, if either Iran or North Korea launches a rocket on a trajectory headed toward the territory of the United States, we will shoot it down. The risk of not doing so is beyond acceptable. And if they construe this as an act of war, so be it, for they fired the first shot. The risk of sitting back for 30 minutes and praying it is not an EMP strike is beyond acceptable, beyond rational on our part.

2. Funding for EMP defense must be a top national priority. To downgrade or halt our missile defense program, which at last is becoming viable after 25 years of research, would be an action of criminal negligence.

Surely, with such a threat confronting us, a fair and open debate, with full public access and the setting aside of partisan politics, is in order. In the meantime, a policy must be stated today that we will indeed shoot down any missile aimed towards the United States that is fired by Iran or North Korea. America’s survival, your survival, and your family’s survival might very well depend on it.

Former House Speaker Newt Gingrich is a Senior Fellow at the American Enterprise Institute. William Forstchen is the author of "One Second After," an account of a town struggling to survive after an EMP weapon is used against the United States.

Obama tried to downplay the significance of his ties to the radical couple and told America that their crimes occurred when he was only "eight years old".

Now it turns out that Van Jones, president Obama's newly appointed "Green Jobs" Czar (Special Advisor for Green Jobs, Enterprise and Innovation at the White House Council on Environmental Quality) may also have a little Weather Underground influence in his background.

While Jones is even younger than Obama, the connections may still have serious security implications.

Van Jones was, until around 2002, a leader of a Bay Area communist sect Standing Together to Organize a Revolutionary movement (STORM). It seems that Jones was also linked to or influenced, to some degree, by two former Weather Underground supporters, Bay Area activists Jon and Nancy Frappier.

Wow. This speculated damage would be so much worse than the more certain threat of nuclear truck bomb attack in a major city. Yeah, why should the bad guys settle for the sure thing devastation of hundreds of thousands of casualties and the consequent economic damage when they could gamble their meager nuclear arsenal in go-for-broke attack 100 miles over our heads?

I don't think EMP is as big a deal as it used to be. There is very little capture area inside modern electronics.

They sure did. BUT the Christians have got past those inquisition and holy wars days with reformation, age of reason, enlightment.

Islam -- not all Islam -- got hung up somewhere after their great civilization was driven out of Spain. And it was not colonial empires that stopped them (consider South Korea -- long occupied by imperial Japan).

I have a Mint RX-350 Shortwave Receiver with manual and origional receipts. An awsome receiver!
100kHz to 30 MHz Demodulation, filtering, passband tuning and AGC are all done by digital signal processing (DSP). In addition the DSP functions include an automatic notch filter and adaptive noise filtering. Reception modes supported are AM, USB/LSB, CW (700 Hz BFO offset) and Digital (1000Hz BFO offset). The receiver has 34 available IF bandwidths for any type of signal under all reception conditions!

I also have the optional 302R remote tuning knob/keypad and the 307B external speaker enclosure which matches the receiver. AC cord and DC plug as well.

Serious interest only please. Email me at jodi.ron@gmail.com for more information.

Thank you,
Ron

Today's New York Times (Thu. 9 April) has this piece by David Pogue in the State of the Art feature which is a pretty fair analysis of HD Radio and where it is in the marketplace today. It runs about 35 column-inches and is on page B-1 (business).

Interestingly the author is on Twitter and solicited comments from other "tweeters' (?) who follow him, and out of a field of a hundred thousand, found only 16 who had tried HD radio.

The author's email addy is given in the piece. I have little doubt he would enjoy hearing from the select group of readers of _these_ email groups (NRC, IRCA etc) who have first hand knowledge of the features and foibles of HD, especially on AM.

"Implausible." Fascinating Bobby. But where you lost me was how in the world you turned that article into a religious thing. That was the last thing on my mind, but I noticed in many of your posts you bring up religion. Perplexing. BTW, got me a new set of headphones from Rat Shack today.:-)

I concur. For those needing "proof":

http://glasstone.blogspot.com/2006/03/emp-radiation-from-nuclear-space.html

(Takes awhile to load), or do a search on Starfish Prime, a 1962 U.S. test that underground fused power lines in Hawaii.

At the risk of having my post pulled, I have attached a diagram.

Had the third stage of the North Korean rocket ignited, it would have placed a payload 250 mi above the Earth.

LOL...that was funny Frank. I think I would rather do without electric than being barbecued. I remember growing up I always thought (like many kids I would guess) that a nuclear bomb being dropped and that would be all she wrote.

That is far from the truth, now if you lived at grown zero or 20-30 miles it could make for a good movie. My hope would be that there would be enough of a warning that even if one was headed to my town that I'd have enough of a jump on it to get the heck out of there.
Hope it never happens in my lifetime, but I feel I am as prepared as one could be.

The trip time for an ICBM from Europe/middle east to the US is between 15 and 30 minutes. I doubt the government would bother to warn the public about it since all it would do is cause panic and likely end up costing more lives than just letting it be. You wouldn't have time to leave a city of any size, let alone get out of the blast zone of an air burst nuke.

About all there would be to do is pray.

If people start lighting off nukes, losing our TV and cell phones would be the least of our problems..

I'll add, strange to me that you would call that a "doomsday scenario." Say worse case scenario and it would go down exactly like the "ones in the know" or the "experts" say....not like Expert Echo Charlie says.;-)

You think that is a doomsday scenario? Maybe it would be if you weren't prepared. I have a 74 Pontiac Ventura, my first car, that wouldn't be impacted by an EMP blast....if indeed it would affect everything solid state like the "experts" say. So, I would still be cruising while the SUV's and Hummers and Land Rovers etc. etc. would be sitting in their driveway. I'd rather it not be my every day car, but in that situation, no problemo here.

I'd still have four receivers that would not be impacted. I Have more than enough food and more than enough water and the skills to handle the food and water if I were to use up all my supplies (which I doubt). I take it odd that you call that a doomsday scenario, maybe for the ones that call it far fetched....lol....they would crap their panties. ;-) or two in that pirate ship face off. ;-) No pressure Steve.
